INVESTIGATE DESTRUCTION OF BUILDING

Efforts of Fire Department to

FALSE ALARMS ARE RECEIVED

Useless Expense Caused by Fake Calls Thruout City

Incendiarism is believed responsible for the mysterious fire Wednesday night which caused property damage estimated at approximately $2,000.

A garage owned by Sam Biddle, 948 McPherson-st., was totally destroyed. Two automobiles in the building were consumed in the flames.

An Earl automobile valued at $1,200, the property of Lewis Grange, and a Ford roadster, valued at $200, owned by Biddle were completely destroyed.

Fire of unknown origin had gained such a headway before discovered and before arrival of the fire department that efforts to save the building and automobiles were fruitless.

Investigation by authorities has shed no light on the origin of the blaze. Automobiles were partially covered by insurance.

False alarms are again being sent to fire headquarters, it was announced Thursday. An hour before the Biddle fire and alarm was forwarded from the street and Greenlawn-way.

Department No. 1 answered the call Tuesday night two false alarms were entered.

Threats of arrest and prosecution of offenders were made at headquarters.

Numerous false alarms were received at fire headquarters last month, entailing heavy financial expenditure to the department for every time an alarm is sounded two companies are moved.

At the time Fire Chief Mack issued warnings and the alarms discontinued but were resumed within the past weeks.

LOCO WORKER IS KILLED

Crushed When He Slips Between Crane and Column

Rollie Knott, 57, of Waynesfield, carpenter at the Lima Locomotive Works, was instantly killed Thursday at 11:50 a. m. when he was crushed between a crane and a steel column.
Knott was helping erect a beam at the time of the accident. As the crane approached he attempted to step out of the way but missed his footing and fell between the crane and column. He was badly mangled.
He leaves a wife and four children.
No funeral arrangements have yet been made.

THEATRE MANAGERS TO GO TO COURT ON SIGNS

Threats to halt every theater manager into court and prosecute them made Thursday morning by City Manager C. A. Bingham when he discovered a wholesale violation of city ordinances by tacking theater signs on poles, trees and little buildings which the city is using in street and sewer construction work.
Returning to his office at noon he called Police Chief Lanker into conference.

RIOT IS STARTED BY GIRLS' DEATH

Detroit Father Charges Police With Mistreatment of Daughter—Station Is Placed Under Strong Guard
When Armed Mob Threatens Attack

DETROIT — (Associated Press) — While three physicians, appointed by Coroner James E. Burgess, today examined the body of Gladyslava Lorenc, 13 year old Polish girl, who, her father alleges, died Saturday as result of mistreatment by police while under arrest on a charge of grand larceny, police are on guard in the vicinity of the girl's home to prevent any demonstration. Two riot calls were sent to police headquarters last night and early today as a result of alleged demonstrations.

John Lorenc, father of the girl, says his daughter told him just before she died that police had abused her and forced her to take ice baths in an attempt to make her confess to the robbery of $100 from Joseph F. Anderson who lived in the same building. He says there were bruises on the girl's body when it was brought from the hospital.

POLICE VERSION
According to the report of James Sprott, assistant superintendent of police, the girl was arrested on September 11, and sent at once to the juvenile detention home. The following day she was removed to a hospital and died Saturday as the result of acute pleurisy. The report says the girl was delirious when she talked to her father and the marks on her body were the result of hypodermic injections and of an autopsy performed with the father's permission.

The father's story of police abuse resulted in hundreds of persons, many of them Polish and other foreigners, coming to view the body. Last night a mob estimated by police at between 4,000 and 5,000 packed the streets, yards and porches for two blocks in either direction from the house where the body of the girl lay. One of the mob threw a brick at a policeman attempting to keep order.
When the man was placed under arrest, several hundred persons charged the police, three of whom were slightly injured. The police backed away from the mob and a riot call was turned in.

SECOND RIOT CALL
Shortly before midnight police dispersed the crowd around the house. Two hours later information was telephoned to the Che-nese, police station, a few blocks from the scene of the trouble, that a mob, armed with shotguns and rifles was assembling around the station. A second riot call was sent in and police armed with riot guns guarded the Chinese station thruout the night, but no further trouble was reported.

A meeting has been arranged by a Polish newspaper for tonight to raise funds to press the investigation into the girl's death. The coroner has announced an inquest will be held after the report of physicians who examined the body today is received.

New York's great stores these days.
"The slump in shopping is caused by our inability to advertise in the newspapers," asserted the executive of one of the largest department stores. "The first day of the strike, business was not so bad—the impetus of the previous days advertising carried us over. Yesterday it was worse. Today it is awful. Tomorrow and each succeeding day we cannot advertise it will be even more noticeable."

There has been no general advertising in the synthetic editions published under the rule of the striking pressmen.

CONFERENCE IS HELD BY BANK HEADS

Plans of First National and American Banks Discussed

DIRECTORS WILL HOLD MEET

Arrangements Being Completed for Stockholders' Meeting

No objection will be raised by the state banking department to the merger of the First National Bank and the American Bank & Trust Co., both of this city, according to Judge William Klinger, vice-president of the American Bank.

Judge Klinger returned to Lima Thursday from Columbus where he was in conference, he said, with state banking department officials. He said that the banking department could not formally act on the proposed merger and the granting of a state charter to the merged bank until the formal application had been made.
"I conferred with the state banking department officials and as a general proposition they have no objection to the merger," said he.
"Of course the statement was made just informally and was not a formal decision of the officials."

DIRECTORS TO MEET
Directors of the American Bank have been called to meet Friday, if possible, to take formal action initiating a movement among the bank's stockholders to approve the merger. This will be the initial movement by the stockholders on the proposition.

It is understood that the directors of the First National bank will take similar action. These directors met Thursday and were in session from 10 a. m. until five minutes of noon.
When asked if they acted in any way on the merger proposition, President D. W. Morris of the bank said, "We have nothing to give out for publication." He said the meeting was the regular Thursday session and combined the discount committee meeting with that of the directors.

Efforts to ascertain from other sources whether the directors took up the merger question proved futile. It is learned however, from absolutely reliable sources, that the directors of the First National bank will call a meeting of the bank stockholders to put the proposition formally before them for acceptance or rejection. Information, is that enough stock is controlled by those favorable to the merger to put the proposition across.

CLEVELAND GIRL IS KIDNAPED

Youthful Abductors Identified by Victim After Arrest

CLEVELAND — (Associated Press)—Miss Florence Essick, 19, was suffering from severe nervous shock and bruises and lacerations today as a result of being kidnaped and attacked after being dragged from her escort's automobile by three youthful bandits late last night while her companion, Nicholaus Paul, was robbed of $12 and held at bay by revolvers in the hands of the abductors. He was marooned in the country when the bandits locked his car and took the keys.

The girl was held captive by the thugs while they drove for more than two hours thru country roads and robbed a farmer of his truck when their own stolen car ran out of gasoline.

The three youths were arrested while they were driving back to the city after releasing the girl. Miss Essick told her story of the kidnaping and attack to relatives and they notified police.

Miss Essick appeared at the police station this morning and identified the three men under arrest as her abductors. They gave their names as:

Harry Burrows, 17; Gilbert Davenstadt, 17 and Andrew Quinn, 22.
Quinn faces charges of assault, robbery and automobile stealing.
The others, both under age, were turned over to juvenile under dolinquency charges.

MAIRE ESTATE IS PROBATED

Inventory Value of $559,000 is Placed by Appraisers

HELD MANY INVESTMENTS

State and City to Benefit Thru Tax Payments

Inventory and appraisement of the estate of the late E. J. Maire, filed in probate court Thursday shows a valuation of $559,390.12.
The amount is about $35,000 in excess of the valuation placed on the estate of the late W. L. Russell, which at the time of filing was credited with being the largest estate to pass thru probate court in recent years.

The appraisement shows that the decedent's interests were widely diversified. His holding include realty, stocks, bonds, notes, mortgages, bank stock, farm crops, oil leases and tools, merchandise and business interests.

Personal property is appraised at $16,877; cash $9,702.73; bonds, stocks, mortgages and notes $495-557.04; accounts due, $5,022.25;
real estate, $31,180.

OWNED MANY STOCKS

A partial list of the stock holdings belonging to Mr. Maire include, 100 shares Lima Trust Co. $22,738-58; 100 shares Iowa Pipe Line Co.
$5,000; 223 shares Buckeye Machine Co. $17,258.14; 286 shares
Central Petroleum Co. $29,402.87;
40 shares Ohio Life, $5,062.22; 52

Salary Increase of $1,000 Must be Returned

AUDITOR'S REPORT RECEIVED

Lima Schools Found in Good Condition, Examiner Says

Finding of $1,000 against Hugh R. Hick, superintendent of schools at Delphos, is the high point in a report of the examination of school accounts of Allen-co, filed Thursday by Josephine A. Lilly, state examiner, for the period from October 4, 1921, to July 31, 1923.

The report makes findings against individuals or firms in varying amounts in all school districts of the county, representing errors, overcharges or duplications, for the most part.
All are of minor consequence,
however, the report indicates.
Including the finding against Hick, total for the entire number of school districts in the county is $1,148.82.
In the case of the superintendent of schools at Delphos, the report reads:

FIVE YEAR PERIOD

"May 1, 1918, H. R. Hick was elected as superintendent of schools for five years, starting September 1, 1918. Salary was stated by the year and the amount for the fifth year, from September 1, 1922 to September 1, 1923 was to be $2,000.

FIVE YEAR PERIOD

"On April 26, 1922, the board of education adopted a resolution to make the amount for the fifth year $3,000. This increase is not authorized by law."

Holding that the sum of $1,000 should be refunded, the examiner has reported a finding in that sum.
It is also pointed out by Miss Lilly that a finding against Superintendent Hick in 1922, for $1,350, under similar conditions, has not been paid by the school board.

The report has little fault to find with the conduct of affairs of business with the Lima school board. It is pointed out that important reports or important correspondence should be more fully described in the minutes, in addition to being filed in the office of the clerk.

BOND PREMIUMS CITED

Method of disposition of premium on bonds is criticized by the examiner. "Otis & Co. bought $340,000 school bonds March 27, 1923," the report states. Premium of $19,224 on these bonds was placed in the building fund, contrary to Section 2295 General Code. "All moneys" from premiums and accer ed interest on the sale of such bonds shall be credited to the sinking fund, from which said bonds are redeemed."

The report points out that a few bills are missing from the files and that some of them are for important expenditures, such as for furniture, books labor, repairs, supplies and for other necessities.

SERVICE FUND HIT

The manner in which the service fund has been set aside from the contingent fund, is the sum of $377.25, is pointed out as irregular.
"When the February distribution was received," the report says, "it was on o.d. in the ledger as distributed by the auditor, with the exception of the contingent fund. From it was deducted the above stated amount, which was entered in the "service fund."
The report commends the operation of a self-supporting book store, handlingsuch as in vogue here, but commendations are made for the handling of the business in a manner that will completely divorce it from procedure in the conduct of other affairs, of business of the schools as required by law.

SALESLADY ONLY CHEWS GUM WHEN THE NEWSPAPERS CEASE

NEW YORK — (United Press) —

Advertising is news.
The dearth of women shoppers at the height of the bargain season is laid to the fact that New York is without newspapers.
Department store heads and shoppers interviewed by the United Press confirmed the fact that shopping is decreasing each day the city goes without its morning and evening papers.
A visit to the large department stores found them deserted in comparison to their usual rush. It does not require the strategy of an Alkemariner to negotiate the paths thru

Clerks in the stores are ready and anxious to serve customers—to break the monotony of idleness.
"We're like a lot of ornaments," said one saleslady who had nothing to do but chew gum, "usually we have to have a guard around us to keep anxious and impatient customers from mobbing us for service—but not so now. Don't tell me this newspaper strike will last long—we work on commission and its the newspapers that bring the people to the store."
She characterized the sentiment of numerous clerks interviewed.
"Advertisements appealing to women are just as necessary as the heart and home topics, the society columns, what woman shall wear and general news," proclaimed one well-dressed lady wandering around a large department store in an attempt to discover what it was she wanted to purchase.

In the basement of one store where general merchandise sold at sale prices, was a shawl clad lady, wrinkled with the age of years. She was questioned.
"You know," she confided, "when all the ads are published, I can look for the cheapest prices of the articles
I want. Now I have to search from store to store for the bargains that are so necessary."

One large store has broken an ancient rule and filled its great show windows with signs inviting the passerby within. At the door the customer is met with special "sale cards" and page newspaper ads—prepared by the newspapers but printed in job shops.
"This is the ad we would have published today were it possible," a legend at the top of the sheet reads.
Other stores are advertising heavily in suburban papers.
Another with a Philadelphia branch has its ads inserted in the New York editions of Philadelphia papers.

ARGENTINA LARGE BUYER

Writer Declares U. S. Bankers Should Make Loans

PREDICTS GREAT RESULTS

British Bankers Shrewd in Making Loans

(BY B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK — (Special) — The more we sell to other countries, the more we sell to our own people.

One way to encourage foreign countries to buy from us is to become their bankers and lend money to them who they need it when it is safe to let them have it.

Most people think it is risky to lend more millions to European countries that are short to pieces politically as well as financially.

But there is another field, a bigger, better field, a more at hand field, where American bankers and American investors could supply capital without undue risk and with helpful results to every person and home in the United States. Do you know that Britain has been depleting with Argentina to lend her almost $200,000,000 if Argentina will spend the money in Britain?

Frank A. Vanderlip once remarked to me that he never talked with any of Britain's leading bankers without coming away with a feeling that he and other bankers in this country were mere school boys at the game.

One of the after-the-war surprises has been the ability of London bankers to furnish capital here, and there everywhere, through the world, and even such a move would directly and greatly increase the demand for British goods, or, in certain cases, powerfully enhance British influence. The little British island has contrived, somehow, to furnish hundreds of millions of dollars to foreign borrowers during the last few years notwithstanding the staggering obligations heaped upon her by the war and the crushing heavy taxes since levied upon her people to meet the interest on and pay off part of these colossal debts.

Why should Argentina be bargaining with London bankers rather than with New York bankers for their going $200,000,000 loans?

Surely we ought to be able to grant the Argentine government as attractive terms as any that London can offer. Yet the fact remains that British bankers have all along succeeded in keeping interest rates there lower than they have been here. British manufacturers and merchants and exporters have been able to have their commercial bills discounted at rates lower than those which have ruled in this country. Seeing that we possess half the world's total stock of gold and that the percentage of reserve carried by our federal reserve banks has been about twice the amount called for by law, it is not easy for the layman to figure out why money should have been costing more here than in Britain.

"Is this another illustration of the superior banking genius of Britons?" That is not the whole answer to the difference between discount rates here and in Britain, but the layman cannot be blamed if this question hobs into his mind.

It must not be assumed, however, that American bankers have been asleep. Indeed, there has been no little criticism that they have been too ready to pump money into trans-Atlantic countries of doubtful stability. Even in regard to South American countries, progress has been made.

The grand total of foreign capital flotations in the United States since the beginning of 1919 has approximated $3,000,000,000. British foreign flotations during the same period have reached only half that amount.

Before the war there had been invested in the Argentine approximately $700,000,000 of foreign capital of which the British were credited with having supplied $250,000,000. United States investments in both the Argentine and Brazil were relatively insignificant.

Would it not be well if our leading bankers assumed aggressive leadership in furnishing capital to countries on this side of the Atlantic? Surely we are the logical cultivators of this undeveloped, fertile, inspiring field.

The issues at stake are tremendously far-reaching. John H. Pratt, a former United States minister to Argentina and later the director general of the Pan-American Union, aptly says of Britain's latest offer to Argentina: "This extraordinary offer of British bankers is epoch-making in history of South American financing. It may prove to be the step that will give England for the next quarter of a century the same tremendous advantage which she obtained over the United States and other countries 25 years ago in competition for the trade and financing of this great and potential republic of the South. Our banking, financial, commercial, and shipping interests should awaken to this situation. Without delay they should meet this offer with a decisively better one."

Of course, the responsibility does not rest solely with our bankers. They cannot float foreign loans here unless you and I and other investors are prepared to subscribe for a share of them. The last foreign loan offered here, the Cuban $50,000,000 issue, went at all well absorbed by investors. The rest of it had to be loaned out by the government. If our bankers are to be successful in winning leadership in financing of South American countries, the prize is richly worth competing for.

AUTO CLUB HEADS IN SESSION

350 Organizations Represented at Cleveland Conference

IMPORTANT PROBLEMS UP

Meeting Held Preliminary to Washington Convention

(CLEVELAND — Associated Press) — Traffic problems of interest to pedestrian as well as to the motorist good roads, uniform speed regulations, taxation and standard road service, as well as a score of other subjects relating to the ownership and operation of motor vehicles will be discussed at a three day national conference of automotive managers and presidents of more than 350 automobile clubs which opened here today. More than 400 automobile owners in all parts of the country are represented.

The conference is a research session, held preliminary to the annual convention of the National Motorists Association in Washington November 16 and 17.

Among other important topics to be considered are uniform headlamps, touring information, tourists camps and anti-theft work. The gasoline price situation also was to have come up for discussion, but this was considered doubtful because of the inability to obtain competent representatives of the oil industry to attend.

Among prominent men in the motoring world who will participate are: P. E. Doolittle, Toronto, Canada, president of the Canadian Automobile Association; Major Raymond F. Carlson, of the power division of the United States Bureau of Standards and C. H. Hanch, Cincinnati, Ind., of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

WEST READS MORE THAN EAST

Survey Shows California Leads Nation As Bookworms

COLUMBIA'S — (United Press) — For all its many colleges, universities and libraries, the so-called effect East falls sadly behind the West, it is a magazine reading survey indicates.

A survey made by Ward G. Reed, assistant professor in the department of school administration, Ohio State University, shows that the people of California lead the nation in the consumption of magazine reading matter. The survey was based on the circulation figures of the 10 magazines having the largest circulation. It shows that Californians read about six times as much as Mississippians, who bring up the rear.

It is a curious fact that based upon the combined circulation of these magazines in each state contrasted with the population, eight Western states place among the first 10. Only Connecticut and Massachusetts are there to represent the East, where most of the magazines are printed. Ohio, the next Eastern state, ranks eleventh.

Based upon the proportion of the readers of these magazines to the population, he points out, that the Pacific states (California, Washington and Oregon) outclass all other groups by a large percentage. He also says that the ranking of the states on reading as shown by the survey is about the same as their ranking on intelligence reached by army psychologists during the world war.

The District of Columbia led the nation in reading, judged by these magazines. There Prof. Reed found 31.7 of the population were magazine readers. The ranking of the states follow: California, 24.1; Nevada, 21.5; Wyoming, 18.4; Montana, 18.5; Colorado, 17.4; Massachusetts, 17.3; Connecticut, 17.2; Idaho, 17.0; and Ohio, 16.8. Illinois ranked twenty-third and Pennsylvania twenty-ninth.

RADIO PLAYS PART IN WRECK PROBE

Log Used as Evidence in Investigating Warship Disaster

SIGNALS UNHEEDED, CLAIM

Facts Sought in Crash on Rocks off California

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — (Associated Press) — The log of a radio compass station, signals of which the navigator of destroyer squadron eleven yesterday testified were disregarded on the night of September 8, when a change of course to the eastward carried seven vessels of the squadron "quietly into the rocks off Honda, Calif. is scheduled to appear as a silent witness before the naval court of inquiry investigating the disaster when its sessions are resumed here tomorrow.

Both the log itself, which shows what signals were sent and received at Point Arguello between noon and midnight on September 8, and the radio men on watch there during that time will be brought before the court for comparison with the previous testimony of witnesses concerning radio compass signals, it was announced today.

OFFICER TESTIFIES — According to the testimony of Lieutenant Laurence F. Blodgett, investigating officer aboard the Delphy, flagship of the squadron, the bearings sent out from Point Arguello were "entirely unsatisfactory," so much so in fact that when they indicated the squadron was north of Point Arguello, where it would be perilous to turn east, he and the commanding officer of the Delphy did not hesitate to decide on an eastward change of course in spite of them, secure in the belief that the radio station was "tuned around" in its signals and was sending them exactly the reverse of what they might expect.

Receipt of repeated bearings indicating that the squadron still was north of Point Arguello did not raise any doubt in Lieutenant Blodgett's mind as to the exact location of his ship, he testified, even the last of such bearings, received only two minutes before the crash, showed them still several miles to the north of the point.

In the midst of his testimony Lieutenant Blodgett was interrupted to be informed by the court that he had been found an "interested party" to the inquiry and should know that it was his right as a defendant to obtain counsel.

His efforts to have his testimony stricken from the record after this announcement were overruled by Admiral W. V. Pratt, presiding member of the court.

Thirteen naval officers now stand cited as "interested parties" in the status of defendants with respect to the destroyer disaster investigation.

PLAN STRUCTURE

Lima Cycle Co. to Have New Home on W. High-st

Plans have been completed and the contract let by the Lima Cycle Co. for a new building to be erected on W. High-st in the 300 block, Charles Rousculp, owner of the company plant at 212 W. High-st has announced. Permit for the construction of the building has been obtained and the contract awarded to L. C. Binkley for $8,000.

Rousculp said the structure will be of brick, one story in height and containing two large store rooms, one for his own use and one to be rented. Giving business is given as the reason for erecting the new building, the lease expiring on the building which the company now occupies.

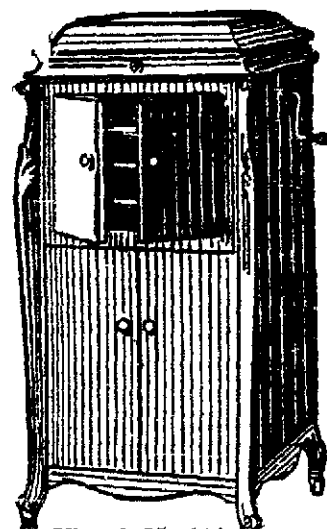

HELP FOR GIRLS WHO WORK

Mrs. Lodic Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Tyrone, Pa. — "A friend told my husband how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped his wife, so my husband bought me a bottle because I was so run-down, had a nervous weakness, no strength in my body and pains in my left side so bad that I could hardly do my work. Before I was married I used to work in the factory, and I had pains just the same then as I have had since I have done my housework. I would not be without a bottle in the house now. It has stopped the pains all right and I have found out that it is a wonderful body builder, as it has made me well and strong. It is going to be the 'old reliable' with me hereafter, and I am always willing to tell other women how it has helped me. You can use this letter as you wish as I can honestly say that my words are true." — Mrs. M. Lodic, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 40, Tyrone, Pa.

Letters like this bring out the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

PREMIER OF JAPAN THANKS U. S. FOR AID

TOKIO — Premier Yamamoto has dispatched a letter to Secretary of State Hughes thru Ambassador Woods formally thanking the American government for the aid extended to Japanese earthquake sufferers. With government assistance assured, life insurance companies say they will begin paying claims in a few days. Fire insurance companies also are expected to pay a substantial part of their losses as the government has decided to subsidize them.

Careful People Realize

THAT THE PROTECTION OF THEIR PRINCIPAL IS VASTLY MORE IMPORTANT THAN THE RATE OF INTEREST PROMISED

Few can afford to speculate, for speculation sooner or later leads to loss. It has always been so. In the busy world of today homely advice of this sort is often ignored. It is nevertheless true.

For the majority of people a deposit on a 5% Certificate is one of the best investments obtainable. No worry, no trouble. 5% is also allowed on Savings Accounts. We will enjoy having you call to talk it over.

ARGENTINA LARGE BUYER

PREDICTS GREAT RESULTS

British Bankers Shrewd in Making Loans

(BY B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK — (Special) — The more we sell to other countries, the more work they do for our own people.

One way to encourage foreign countries to buy from us is to become their bankers and lend money to them when they need it and when it is safe to let them have it.

Most people feel that it is risky to lend more money to European countries that are shot to pieces politically as well as financially.

But is there not another field, a bigger, better field, a newer, it-band field where American bankers and American investors could supply capital without any risk and with helpful results to every person and home in the United States? Do you know that Britain has been dictating with Argentina to lend her almost $200,000,000 of Argentina will spend the money in Britain?

Frank A. Vandellip once remarked to me that he never talked with any of Britain's leading bankers without coming away with a feeling that he and other bankers in this country were mere school boys at the game.

One of the things that surprised me has been the ability of London bankers to furnish capital here, and there everywhere through the world, and even such a move would directly and greatly increase the demand for British goods, or in certain cases, possibly reduce their demand.

The little British island has contrived, somehow, to turn a few hundreds of millions of dollars to foreign borrowers during the last few years notwithstanding the staggering obligations heaped upon her by the way and the crushing heavy taxes since levied upon her people to meet the interest on and pay off part of these colossal debts.

Why should Argentina be bargaining with London bankers rather than with New York bankers for their coming $200,000,000 loans?

Surely we ought to be able to grant the Argentine government as attractive terms as any that London can offer. Yet the fact remains that British bankers have all along succeeded in keeping interest rates there lower than they have been here. British manufacturers and merchants and exporters have been able to have their commercial bills discounted at rates lower than those which have ruled in this country. Seeing that we possess half the world's total stock of gold and that the percentage of reserve carried by our federal reserve banks has been about twice the amount called for by law, it is not easy for the layman to figure out why money should have been costing more here than in Britain.

"Is this another illustration of the superior banking genius of Britons? That is not the whole answer to the difference between discount rates here and in Britain, but the layman cannot be blamed if this question bobs into his mind.

It must not be assumed, however, that American bankers have been asleep. Indeed there has been no little criticism that they have been too ready to pump money into trans-Atlantic countries of doubtful stability. Even in regard to South American countries, progress has been made.

The grand total of foreign capital flotations in the United States since the beginning of 1919 has approximated $3,000,000,000. But in foreign flotations during the same period have reached only half this amount.

Before the war there had been invested in the Argentine approximately $7,700,000,000 of foreign capital of which the British were credited with having supplied $2,500,000,000. United States investments in both the Argentine and Brazil were relatively insignificant.

Would it not be well if our leading bankers assumed aggressive leadership in furnishing capital to countries on this side of the Atlantic? Surely we are the logical cultivators of this undeveloped fertile, inspiring field.

The issues at stake are too numerous far-reaching. John Barrett, a former United States minister to Argentina and after the director general of the Pan-American Union, aptly says of Britain's latest offer to Argentina: "This extraordinary offer of British bankers is epoch-making in history of South American financing. It may prove to be the step that will give England for the next quarter of a century the same tremendous advantage which she obtained over the United States and her countries 25 years ago in competition for the trade and financing of this great and potential republic of the South. Our banking, financial, commercial, and shipping interests should awaken to this situation. Without delay they should meet this offer with a decisively better one."

RADIO PLAYS PART IN WRECK PROBE

Facts Sought in Crash on Rocks off California

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — (Associated Press) — The log of a radio compass station, signals of which the navigator of destroyer squadron eleven yesterday testified were disregarded on the night of September 8, when a change of course to the eastward carried seven vessels of the squadron squarely into the rocks off Honda, Calif., is scheduled to appear as a silent witness before the naval court of inquiry investigating the disaster when its sessions are resumed here tomorrow.

Both the log itself, which shows what signals were sent and received at Point Arguello between noon and midnight on September 8, and the radio men on watch there during that time will be brought before the court for comparison with the previous testimony of witnesses concerning radio compass signals, it was announced today.

OFFICER TESTIFIES

According to the testimony of Lieutenant Laurence F. Blodgett, navigating officer aboard the Delphy, flagship of the squadron, the bearings sent out from Point Arguello were "entirely unsatisfactory," so much so in fact that when they indicated the squadron was north of Point Arguello, where it would be perilous to turn east, he and the commanding officer of the Delphy did not hesitate to decide on an eastward change of course in spite of them, secure in the belief that the radio station was "turned around" in its signals and was sending them exactly the reverse of what they might expect.

Receipt of repeated bearings indicating that the squadron still was north of Point Arguello did not raise any doubt in Lieutenant Blodgett's mind as to the exact location of his ship, he testified, even the last of such bearings, received only two minutes before the crash, showed them still several miles to the north of the point.

In the midst of his testimony Lieutenant Blodgett was interrupted to be informed by the court that he had been found an "interested party" to the inquiry and should know that it was his right as a defendant to obtain counsel.

His efforts to have his testimony stricken from the record after this announcement were overruled by Admiral W. V. Pratt, presiding member of the court.

Thirteen naval officers now stand cited as "interested parties" in the status of defendants with respect to the destroyer disaster investigation.

Tyrone, Pa. — "A friend told my husband how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped his wife, so my husband bought me a bottle because I was so run-down, had a nervous weakness, no strength in my body and pains in my left side so bad that I could hardly do my work. Before I was married I used to work in the factory, and I had pains just the same then as I have had since I have done my housework. I would not be without a bottle in the house now. It has stopped the pains all right and I have found out that it is a wonderful body builder, as it has made me well and strong. It is going to be the 'old reliable' with me hereafter, and I am always willing to tell other women how it has helped me. WEST READS MORE THAN EAST

Survey Shows California Leads Nation As Bookworms

COLUMBUS — (United Press) — For all its many colleges, universities and libraries the so-called "West" falls sadly behind the East in its quantity magazine reading, it is indicated.

A survey made by Ward G. Reed, an assistant professor in the department of school administration, Ohio State University, shows that the people of California had the nation's lowest consumption of magazine reading matter. The survey was based on the circulation figures of the 10 magazines having the largest circulation. It shows that Californians read about six times as much as Mississippians, who bring up the rear.

It is a curious fact that based upon the combined circulation of these magazines in each state contrasted with the population, eight Western states place among the first 10. Only Connecticut and Massachusetts are there to represent the East, where most of the magazines are printed. Ohio, the next Eastern state, ranks eleventh.

Based upon the proportion of the readers of these magazines to the population, he points out, that the Pacific states (California, Washington and Oregon) outclass all other groups by a large percentage. He also says that the ranking of the states on reading as shown by the survey is about the same as their ranking on intelligence reached by army psychologists during the world war.

The District of Columbia led the nation in reading, judged by these magazines. There Prof. Reed found 31.7 of the population were magazine readers. The ranking of the states follow: California, 2.8 per cent; Oregon, 2.4 per cent; Washington, 2.1 per cent; Nevada, 2.1 per cent; Wyoming, 1.8 per cent; Montana, 1.8 per cent; Colorado, 1.7 per cent; Massachusetts, 1.7 per cent; Connecticut, 1.7 per cent; Idaho, 1.6 per cent; Illinois, 1.6 per cent; and Pennsylvania, twenty-ninth.

BRITAIN REJECTS U.S. PLAN TO BATTLE RUM

OPPOSED TO SEA LIMIT PROPOSAL

Declines to Enter Treaty Extending Line to 12 Miles

BELIEVED IMPRACTICABLE

Washington Doesn't Think Door Definitely Closed, However

WASHINGTON — (United Press) — Great Britain has delivered to the United States a negative reply to the American proposal for a treaty extending the 12-mile limit to combat the illicit liquor traffic, it was officially announced at the state department today.

The British note was handed to the Secretary of State Phillips by Charles Affaires Chilton, of the British embassy.

The note is understood to be principally a recapitulation of the British government's objections to the American proposal.

REASONS GIVEN

The note sets forth at length the reasons why the British government believes that the American proposal would not be practicable. However, high state department officials said they did not regard the British note as a complete rejection of the American proposal.

The British left an opening, officials here hold, by concluding the note with the statement that the whole question of cooperation with the United States on prohibition will be submitted to the imperial conference of British premiers in London in October.

This conference, made up of the heads of British dominions and colonies is expected to consider the Hughes proposal for a 12-mile dry zone treaty. The state department declined to make public the text of the British reply because it considers that the negotiations have not been closed.

HUGHES' PROPOSAL

The Hughes proposal was submitted to Great Britain last July. Its main features were:

1.—A treaty agreement between the two governments extending American authority to the 12-mile limit at sea, so that this government could more effectively combat rum running.

2.—An agreement whereby British ships could bring liquor under all into American waters without being subject to search and seizure.

3.—A phase of the agreement would have been the British objection to the supreme court's ruling that foreign ships could not bring liquor, even under seal into American waters.

Rejection of this proposal has been expected ever since Lord Curzon, British foreign minister, some months ago made a vigorous attack on the house of lords on the supreme court's opinion and said that Great Britain would never accept the Hughes suggestions.

COMMERCE DIRECTORS MAY ACT ON PENSION QUESTION

Board of Commerce directors and advisory committees at their early luncheon Thursday are expected to act one way or another on the old age pension question which is scheduled to come before the state legislature at its next meeting, according to information obtainable at the board offices Wednesday.

Officials of the Ohio Board of Commerce are making a state wide tour against the proposed pension plan and have sent out pamphlets explaining arguments against it. Copies of these pamphlets have been received at the offices of the local board. Request has been made that a Lima board act on the proposition, either by giving the proposed law endorsement or standing with the board against the proposition.

RENEWAL LODGES TO MEET

Over 200 members are expected to attend the district convention of Refreshment Lodges to be held in Lima Thursday, Sept. 27, according to Mrs. T. E. Bismar, of Elida, president of the district. Delegates from all over the county will be present.

BIDS TO BE OPENED ON THE BEAUTIFUL NEW SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL AT FINDLAY

Not only Tom D. McLaughlin, the architect, but a half score Lima firms may figure in the completing of Findlay's handsome new Senior High School, bids on which will be opened in Findlay, Friday. Among the Lima bidders are:

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

Miss Charlotte Bassett, county school nurse, was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Farm Women's Club of Monroe-twp. Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Francis Marshall. She has recently completed a survey of health conditions in all county schools.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Carl, of Francis-ville, announced the birth of a son Tuesday night at St. Rita's hospital.

An appropriation suit filed in probate court by the city to condemn land at the end of Jameson-av to make a new crossing over the Pennsylvania right of way, and outlet to Elida-rd, has been settled out of court.

R. E. Ashley, district superintendent of the Bankers' Life Insurance Co., of Des Moines, and R. W. Andrews, who is associated with him in the district office, returned Tuesday evening from Cleveland where they attended the state meeting of the company representatives. Both report a big time. It was their first attendance at a state meeting as Ashley but recently took over the district agency.

Up until noon Wednesday, City Solicitor Paul Landis had received no decision from Federal Judge Killits on the motions in connection with the Farley damage suit against the city. Farley wants a special master to take testimony and the city asks for a term of federal court here.

Charge of operating a disorderly house against Lizzie Davenport, E.

Lions Club members at their Wednesday noon luncheon voted unanimously to go thru with the Salvation Army Sunday school proposition and name a building committee to help the army erect the building.

This committee consists of F. C. Smith, Joel Spyer, Howard Miller, Edgar Cooney and Albert Westner.

Captain F. W. Wilkinson was the luncheon speaker and he outlined the work of the Salvation Army, not only here but all over the country and drove home the need of having the Sunday school on the southside in particular who are not affiliated with other Sunday schools.

Captain Wilkinson told the club members that whatever they thought of the Volstead law they could not get away from the fact that the Salvation Army has found that it has been 99 per cent effective in checking drinking among those types of people who could not control their habits and did not know when they had enough.

LIMA TO HOLD PROGRAMS FOR FIRE-PREVENTION WEEK

October 9 to 13 is to be observed in Lima as fire prevention week in connection with the national movement to decrease fire hazards, according to Fire Chief Mack.

Special programs are to be prepared in schools during the five days, which will include fire drills, fire prevention talks and other features adopted by the national association to educate the public.

Fire Chief Mack is preparing a special fire-hazard program which will be placed before Lima citizens during the five days, he announced Wednesday.

BINGHAM ORDERS STREETS AND CROSSINGS FLUSHED

Flushing of the nasty street crossings in the downtown district has been ordered by City Manager C. A. Bingham, he announced Wednesday, the work to be started at once. He has taken this action because the rains and the torn-up condition of the streets has resulted in the crossings being unusually dirty.

He has also ordered a flushing of the streets in the business district. This work will be done under the supervision of C. E. Bobenmyer, street superintendent.

Wayne-st, was dismissed Tuesday afternoon in criminal court.

Mrs. John Frail of 681 N. Eliza-beth-st obtained a permit at city hall Wednesday morning to erect a garage to cost approximately $250.

Judge William Klinger spent Tuesday in Columbus on legal business.

REPAIR OF SEWER WORK MAY END

City Funds to Carry on Work Are Exhausted

SEWER REPAIRS NECESSARY

Bingham Says Funds Virtually Are Gone

With the city street repair fund exhausted and all that work stopped the city now faces a stoppage of sewer repair work before snow flies, J. H. Jewhurst, city engineer, said Wednesday morning. He said there is grave doubt that the fund will last to do all sewer repairing necessary before the cold weather comes and ends such work.

CREWS ARE SWITCHED

All crews which were at work on street repairs have been put at other jobs, mostly in sewer repair and construction work, Jewhurst said. It was also learned that some street repair work which had been started before the fund was exhausted, will have to be finished some way even if it is done under another name. "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet," the city officials opine and so a street repair job done under any other name, is still a street repair job completed.

City Manager Bingham just laughed at reports Wednesday that the fund was not entirely gone but that the city officials were putting out the story as propaganda to help the three-mill levy proposition. "Just the usual bunk," said Bingham.

U. S. SENATORS ARE SUBPOENAED

Called to Testify at Alcohol Trial in Cleveland

CLEVELAND — (United Press) — Governor A. Victor Donahy, three ex-governors of Ohio and Simeon D. Fess, United States senator from Ohio, have been subpoenaed to appear as character witnesses for Joseph A. Shearer, former prohibition director of Ohio, being tried with three others in the Counts liquor conspiracy case.

In addition to these, two prominent Columbus bankers have been summoned. The array of prominent character witnesses is:

Frank B. Willis, ex-governor, and United States senator, Delaware, Ohio.

James M. Cox, former governor and Democratic presidential candidate at the last election, Dayton, Ohio.

James E. Campbell, ex-governor, the oldest ex-state chief executive living, whose home is in Columbus.

R. H. Schroeder, of the Citizens Trust and Savings Company, Columbus.

Emil Kieswetter, president of the Ohio National Bank, Columbus.

Subpoenas were issued for all except Campbell, who was telegraphed at his home.

The defense probably will begin putting its character witnesses on the witness stand Friday.

SHEARER ON STAND

—Joseph A. Shearer, of Columbus, former federal prohibition director of Ohio, resumed the witness stand in his own defense when federal court opened today. Shearer is on trial with Fred Counts, former federal prohibition agent for Cleveland; Samuel A. Hoskins, Columbus attorney and a Frank Counts, on charges of conspiracy. He is the first of the defendants to testify.

During his testimony yesterday Shearer-refuted charged that had been made by Louis Auerbach and Samuel Rembrandt, chief witnesses for the government, which closed its case yesterday. Shearer testified that the first two times he met Rembrandt the latter had offered him bribes, but on each occasion he refused them.

Rembrandt was convicted of offering Fred Counts a bribe of $4,000 and is serving a three year sentence in the Atlanta penitentiary. Auerbach who also is serving a sentence in that prison, and Rembrandt were brought back here to testify.

On one occasion when Rembrandt came to confer with him in Columbus, Shearer testified yesterday, he was on his way to catch a train for Washington. Rembrandt, the witness stated, accompanied him to the depot in an automobile and exhibited a large amount of money, saying "Here's a present for you." Rembrandt explained, Shearer continued, that he wanted Shearer to release a large quantity of whisky which had been seized here. Shearer testified that he told Rembrandt that "the man who has charge of seizures in Cleveland is Fred Counts" and that he had "come to the wrong man."

Shearer testified that although he had known Hoskins for many years, he had no office connection with him while serving as federal prohibition director.

RESUME REPLEVIN TRIAL ON BEER TRUCK CASE THURSDAY

Replevin trial in the Jesse Anderson truck case will be resumed Thursday afternoon in criminal court before Judge Poling to hear further testimony and to award a verdict.

The suit culminated after the city confiscated a truck driven by Anderson, which was used to transport 18 half barrels of beer. Anderson paid a $1,000 fine on a liquor violation charge and the court ordered sale of the truck.

Claim was entered by John Dehner, Ft. Wayne, who declared he has a mortgage on the truck and that Anderson took it out of the state without his knowledge.

MUST NOT PLANT TOO EARLY

Wheat Fly Free Date Will be After Sept. 26

CORN FODDER IS DAMAGED

Ears of Late Corn Also Affected by Frost

Farmers are urged by County Agent H. J. Ridge to observe the fly free dates in seeding their wheat: The ten day period for Allen-co is from September 26th to October 5th.

Early seeding is discouraged as the Hessian Fly is now under control in the county, Ridge said. Only a small percentage of the flies are found now compared with former years.

A few farmers can harm the whole county by early planting, Ridge points out, for if the Hessian fly is allowed to start in a few fields it will soon spread to other fields and the whole county will be affected in a few years.

Farmers should be careful and not plant their wheat too late, Ridge warns, as late planting is likely to meet unfavorable weather conditions with poor crop resulting. The best wheat yields in the county this year, Ridge said, were raised by farmers who planted immediately after the opening fly free date.

Trumbull wheat is recommended by the Farm Bureau as the best wheat seed to plant. Recent tests have proven that this brand is the most successful in Allen-co.

Wheat acreage decrease from 10 to 15 percent is expected in Allen-co this year by farm bureau officials. This will mean that only a little over 17,000 acres will be planted in wheat compared with 20,000 acres this year. Over supply of the grain this year is given as the reason by the farmers for cutting their wheat acreage.

Rains Tuesday damaged corn fodder to a great extent, H. J. Ridge said. The fodder that has been frosted will soak up and when dry will blow from the stalk by the first wind. Ears were not damaged by the moisture.

Frosts last week damaged corn fodder to a great degree, Ridge said. Reports are coming in daily from all parts of the county declaring that the frost seriously damaged corn foliage that was to have been used as fodder. Ears of late corn were also damaged by the cold weather.

GERMANS WORRY OVER CROPS

City Folks Travel To Country To Buy Vegetables

BERLIN — (Associated Press) — Germany's food situation has reached what was called the "bagman" stage in the Russian collapse. City folks must now travel to the country and get their foodstuffs, unless they want to pay the extortionate prices asked by food-speculators.

Suburban trains are crowded by men and women carrying vegetables, milk, butter, meat and other supplies which local retailers in almost all German cities are unable to provide under present conditions.

Farmers who have food supplies insist upon payment in foreign money. As retailers must sell for German paper marks, their business is a standstill.

A well-dressed man who was walking along Unter den Linden carrying an expensive alligator case, found himself recently the center of an envious group when his case burst open and potatoes rolled out over Berlin's most fashionable boulevard.

Berlin house-holders are already beginning to seek their winter supply of vegetables, and food scouts are traveling through the potato districts making contracts for families. Field workers' strikes and a cold, rainy spring — the coldest, wettest spring in some 200 years — have materially affected Germany's 1922 harvest, which otherwise would have been about the average, according to reports from the agricultural districts.

Potatoes, one of Germany's chief foods, and in many families fully as important as meat and eggs and milk, were set back by the cold weather, and prospects for the late crop are not at all encouraging, the agriculturalists report. Germany has been importing potatoes from Holland and other nearby countries for months in efforts to relieve the shortage.

LLOYD GEORGE TO BE INVITED

Welshmen of District May Hear Former Premier

David Lloyd George, England's war premier, will be a guest of Welshmen of Lima and Allen-co, it plans now being formulated by City Commissioners Earl Rohn and Ellis Jones can be carried to a successful fruition, Commissioner Rohn announced Tuesday morning.

He said that he and Jones believe that enough interest can be aroused among local Welshmen to send the distinguished Welshman a pressing invitation to stop in Lima on his tour of this country. Lloyd George, he said, will pass thru this city about 3 in the afternoon that he goes from Chicago to Pittsburgh and efforts will be made to have him stop.

Plans now being worked out, call for sending a cablegram to the war premier asking him to stop and if he consents it is then planned to have a big dinner in his honor at the Elks club to be followed, if he consents, by a public meeting in Memorial Hall at which the visitor will make an address. Rohn plans to ask the Lima Kiwanians to get back of the proposition.

Lloyd George leaves England about October 2, Rohn said, and will tour this country as far west probably as the Mississippi river.

APPOINT STEINER HEAD OF GROUP

Will Direct Bluffton College Fund in Lima

$125,000 QUOTA IS SET

Many Needs of Institution Are Outlined by Bentley

Detailed plans for the Bluffton College financial campaign to be waged in Allen-co and territory adjacent to the college in other counties, were announced Wednesday by H. O. Bentley, general campaign chairman for the Lima district.

Dr. Oliver S. Steiner has accepted the chairmanship of the Lima committee. During the week the complete list of workers will be announced.

The college is seeking a total of $625,000 for endowment and expansion. Of this amount Allen-co is asked to pledge $125,000, a Cleveland man has pledged $100,000 and the Mennonite Conference of North America has pledged $400,000.

Five years will be allowed for payment of the pledges.

Application of the money to provide the greatest good for the college, as the officials believe, has been arranged on the following plan:

For music hall with auditorium, $100,000.

For completing Lincoln Hall, men's dormitory, $20,000.

For ten years accumulated maintenance deficits, $56,316.

For maintenance while pledges are being paid, $75,000.

For permanent endowments, increasing the fund to $513,132, $375,684.

A series of gifts or specific purposes are outlined. The suggestions include:

$500—provides perpetually one-fourth scholarship; or 15 volumes annually for library; or immediate, 300 volumes for library.

$1,000—provides perpetually one-half scholarship; or, laboratory fees annually for ten students; or provide and furnish a dormitory room, $2,000—provides a full scholarship; or, 30 periodicals annually for the library.

$3,000—provides necessary equipment for either physical or biological laboratory; or, will provide annually for upkeep of athletic grounds.

$5,000—will provide grandstand for athletic field.

$15,000—will provide building for library.

$25,000—will provide salary annually for engineer.

$50,000—will endow a chair or provide chemistry building.

IN MEMORY OF BOBBIE COCHRAN

Little Bobbie you have left us, And we miss your loving face, But we know you went up yonder To a sweeter and better place.

Our hearts are filled with sadness, Because we loved you so, But God wanted you back in heaven So we had to let you go.

But we hope to meet you sweet heart, When it comes our time to go, For you went on just before us To show us the way you know.

Your stay with us was so short dear, The time went by so fast, But your memory will always stay dear For it will always last.

Our hearts are aching Bobbie, And our arms are empty, too, For there isn't any one dear That can take the place of you.

We know that you are happy In your home with God on high, And your little hand has waved to us, That last long goodbye.

A Friend Who Loved Him.

SOLONS CALLED IN DEFIANCE OF GOVERNOR

OKLAHOMA MOVES FIRST PICTURES OF JAPANESE QUAKE DISASTER TO SHOWDOWN (YOKOHAMA IN FLAMES)

Legislators Ordered to Assemble Next Wednesday

SEEK TO OUST EXECUTIVE

Lawmakers Threatened With Arrest by State Chief

OKLAHOMA CITY — (Associated Press)—Events in Oklahoma moved today toward a showdown between Gov. J. C. Walton and members of the state legislature over the executive's exercise of authority and his war on the Ku Klux Klan and mob floggers.

A call for an extraordinary session of the lower house to consider a series of charges that Governor Walton has taken unto himself the powers of a despot and has supplanted constitutional government with a dictatorship, was issued this morning.

The call was made public by W. P. McBee, representative from Stephens-co., and bore the names of 45 house members with the promise that during the day the list would grow to 54, constituting a majority of the house.

Noon of next Wednesday is the hour fixed for the assembling of the lawmakers.

Representative McBee declared that he anticipated no attempt by the governor to carry out his threat to jail the legislators in the event that they convened.

"The folly of attempting to carry out his threat to arrest members has been made apparent to him. He realizes that the call is legal and cannot be forestalled," McBee asserted.

APPEAL OF GOVERNOR

At almost the same moment the legislative call was promulgated, Governor Walton appealed to the people of the state in a proclamation to repudiate the attempt of the lawmakers to assemble, charging that those sponsoring the movement are "Klan members" of the legislature, "inspired by the invisible empire and aided by the Klan press."

It was asserted by Representative McBee that Governor Walton, in conjunction with Murray F. Gibbons, speaker of the house, was contemplating the issuance of a call for a special session "in a last desperate effort with the hope that some of the boys might be won over to his cause by a show of desire to remedy a situation he has created." McBee released the call drawn by house members he explained, "to beat the governor to it."

If the special session of the house is convened the members present would sit as grand jurors to hear the evidence against the governor. Should impeachment be voted, the case would go to the Senate, which would be required to convene and act as a court.

The call for the session declared that the time had come to prove or disprove charges openly made against the governor.

ORDER TO DISMANTLE

Civil government in some counties is under the control of the Ku Klux Klan and the only way to stop lawlessness in the state is by use of the military, Governor Walton declared in a proclamation ordering the removal of the state of all publicly displayed fiery crosses of the Klan.

Instructions civil and military authorities to dismantle the Klan emblems, where they are found, the governor said.

"The invisible empire threatens the sovereignty of the state and is the enemy of the state of Oklahoma. Its flag is a fiery cross, now high aloft in many public places, evincing its encroachment upon the civil government of this state. The cross is an emblem of peace, of amity and order and sacred to history; but the fiery cross is the pagan emblem of fear, hatred and rebellion.

"Evidence procured by military courts of inquiry proved that the Klan is responsible for beating and mutilating hundreds of persons in the state. It has the civil government of Tulsa and elsewhere under its control.

Because of the organization's power, I know of no way—there is no way—to stop this outlandish and terror except by the military."

Editors of a number of representative newspapers of the state meeting at Tulsa issued a statement last night addressed to the people of the country, attacking the governor for what they termed his attempt to abrogate the constitutional rights of Oklahoma citizens and set aside the process of republican government.

The editors also urged that the legislature be convened at once.

Challenging the governor's proclamation that a state of insurrection and rebellion exists throughout Oklahoma, the editors declared that his decree of martial law is a libel against the state.

"The supreme issue in Oklahoma today is not visible or invisible government, as Walton says, but constitutional government or despotism," the editors' statement asserted.

DEATH IS PROBED MEETING OF WOMEN'S TRADE UNIONS CALLED

MINNEAPOLIS — (Associated Press)—Walter Gretchel, 18 year old boxer, died in the ring at an amateur football club benefit show here last night. He fell to the floor in the second round of his bout with Conrad Becklund, 20, and died within a few moments. Witnesses differed in their stories to police. Some said Gretchel went down without being hit.

According to a deputy coroner, death might have been caused by a broken neck or heart disease. The coroner will conduct a post mortem examination today.

Police arrested Becklund; Arnold Sandberg, the referee and W. I. N. Hastings, the promoter. They were held pending an investigation.

NEW YORK — The New York State Women's Trade Union League has issued a call to trade union organizations having women members in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Connecticut for a conference to be held at Echo Hill Farm, Yorktown Heights, N. Y., on October 20 and 21 for the consideration of special problems confronting women in the labor movement.

Discussion at the conference will deal with minimum wage legislation and the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court on this matter; child labor legislation; education of workers, workers' classes, study groups and colleges; and international peace.

TRY A "BUDDY BROOKS SHAVE"

No Razor!

You shaved this morning? What will you do about going out to call, or to the theatre, this evening?
Will you shave again?
It isn't necessary at all—
if you have a can of "Buddy Brooks." Just sprinkle a little "Buddy Brooks" into your hands and rub it on to your face.
Try this and see how fresh you look and feel. And you will look the same all evening too.

Lots Better Than Talc
For "Buddy Brooks" is entirely different from ordinary "talcum." It isn't "sticky" and "shiny" like talc.
Neither is it "sticky" and "heavy" like women's face powder. But it is just right for a man's use. We call it "A Man's Powder for Men"—but if you let the women folks get hold of your can you'll have to buy yourself another—sure as fate.
For use after shaving "Buddy Brooks" hasn't an equal. Not only does it look so well and feel so pleasant, but it is also highly healing and soothing. Any little cut or skin irritation heals right up when you use "Buddy Brooks."

It's just made for you.
Just ask any druggist for a can of "Buddy Brooks." But if you have ANY trouble in securing it, PLEASE send your name and address to Buddy Brooks, Inc., Marshall, Mich.
The price is 50 cents for a large can. A little more expensive than talcum, yet not so much as a face powder.
Send the coupon for a trial size or "guest room" package, and try this NEW KIND of toilet powder.

VOTE ON SPECIAL ELECTIONS

Money for City and Schools Needed by Townships

ELECTIONS IN NOVEMBER

Cairo and Elida File Petitions for 3-Mill Levy

Special elections for the purpose of raising money for city and school operation will be voted upon in nearly every township in Allen-co, at the November election, it was indicated Thursday when petitions from Cairo and Elida for three mill levies were filed with the board of elections.

Cairo voters will have the opportunity to approve or reject a three-mill levy to run five years to raise money for school purposes.

Elida city council filed a petition to place a three-mill levy before the people to relieve the village's financial distress. Because the petition omitted the date for holding the election, it was sent back.

$50,000 BOND ISSUE
A bond issue to raise $50,000 for the city without a license, was ordered out of Lima by Judge Poling when he entered a guilty plea late Wednesday afternoon.

Other township and village are lining up for a vote of issuing bonds or levying a special tax at the November election.

Action by the city commission assured a vote on a three-mill levy in Lima. This money will be used in the carrying on of the various city departments if it is granted.

Need for this money is pointed out by city commissioners following the announcement by the county budget commission that only $84,000 will be available for operation in 1924.

BLANK EXAMINES PETITIONS

Attorney Ed. Blank Thursday appeared at city hall and examined the petition which was signed for paving Robb-av between Main and West-sts, signatures on which were pronounced forgeries before the city commission meeting two weeks ago by E. J. Blank, a neigineer at the Ohio Steel Foundry plant.

At that time Engineer Blank declared that if the city did not make an investigation of his charges, he would take the matter before the state officials.

After examining the petition Thursday morning, Attorney Blank said claims that signatures had been photographed from other petitions and then transferred to the Robb-av petition was untrue because the signatures on the Robb-av petition showed no tampering, save that one had been written first in lead pencil and then traced over in ink when it was found that lead pencil could not be used.

Engineer Blank claimed that the signature of his wife, Mary E. Blank, was not genuine but careful examination of the petition by Attorney Blank showed that of the signatures on it, the one absolutely complying with all legal requirements was that of Mrs. Blank. The attorney said he knew nothing wrong with the petition, despite the claims of his relative.

TWO MEN WOUNDED IN LIQUOR BATTLE

AKRON—Charles B. Burkett, 35, special deputy sheriff, and James Ipiotis, 35, alleged bootlegger, today were recovering from bullet wounds received in gun battles during liquor raids. Burkett was shot in the arm, shoulder and thigh when he attempted to arrest the men unloading the whiskey. Ipiotis was shot in the wrist when he resisted arrest. The shootings occurred in different parts of the city.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

Kimer J. Stroth, 22, of 1031 W. Spring-st., and Emma Lulse Detjen, 22, bookkeeper, Moulton-tp., St. Marys, were granted a marriage license and were married this week by Rev. George Schultz, of St. Marys.

Members of the Independent Order of Oddfellows are asked to meet at Main and Wayne-sts Saturday at 12:30 p. m. to attend the funeral of the late Brother W. T. Jacobs, 317 Elmwood-pl. Plans are in charge of the Relief committee.

Mrs. Lela Blum, successor to Millie Haverbeck, has returned from Chicago, where she attended the Fashion Show.

Mrs. Delbert Holmes, S. Main-st., who underwent an operation at St. Rita's Hospital on Monday is reported as doing nicely.

Members of the boy scout council of Lima meet Thursday morning at the Board of Commerce rooms to discuss a new scout executive to succeed C. L. Conrad. No action was taken although the council had before it one application. It was stated by a member of the council.

James Shells, peddler operating in the city without a license, was ordered out of Lima by Judge Poling when he entered a guilty plea late Wednesday afternoon.

Theft of a Ford automobile Wednesday night from the public square was reported to police by Howard Swack, Beavertown, who gave a description of the missing car to police to aid in their search.

City Auditor Churchill and City Solicitor Landis Wednesday night completed the transcripts of the city commission action on the bond and note issues recently sold and mailed them to the five bond attorneys, Peck, Shaffer & Williams, of Cincinnati.

Overing to the building of a sewer at Elm and S. Main-sts, City Manager Bingham has directed that a uniformed policeman be stationed there to direct traffic. His action came after an American Express Co. driver had forced workmen to leap into the trench to avoid being hit.

Contractor J. W. Farley has notified City Manager Bingham that he will place cinders on S. Main-st between Second and Fourth-sts where considerable sewer work has been done and the street is muddy.

SHOP COMMITTEES OF Y. M. C. A. INDUSTRIAL TO HOLD DINNER THURSDAY

Shop or service committees of the industrial work of the Y. M. C. A. will attend a dinner at the "Y" at 6 p. m. Thursday at which time committee service will be discussed and high spots of the industrial program will be outlined. About 35 persons are expected to be present.

V. H. Whipple, industrial secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of Dayton, will be the principal speaker. He will tell of what the shop committees in Dayton are accomplishing and what can be accomplished in the matter of committee service in Lima. The meeting is in line with an intensive organization effort on the part of "Y" officials, the purpose being to promote a more aggressive program of service to the men of industry and put into effect a stronger brand of association industrial work.

Committee organization thus far has been extended into the following plants: Lima Locomotive, nine men; Garford Motor, nine men; Solar Re-finery, five men; Ohio Steel foundry, seven men; Lake Erie shops, five men; B. & O. shops, five men; Gramm-Bernstein Motor, five men; East Iron and Machine, five men.

MURDER PLOT IS SUSPECTED

Body of Dead Baby Found Along Ottawa Tracks

Discovery of the body of a dead baby boy along the right of way of the Lima & Toledo railway in Ottawa was reported to Coroner A. F. Shelby late Wednesday.

The small body, in which life had been extinct for several days, was found by Charles Fulton, roadmaster for the traction company, near a tool house about 300 feet from the station.

It was wrapped in a Toledo newspaper and all marks of identification had been carefully removed. It is estimated it was between five and six months old at the time of its death.

Coroner Shelby investigated the case upon its being presented to him by Marshall Cahill who had been called by Fulton. He went at once to the scene of the tragedy and examined the body.

While no official decision has been reached by the coroner, it is believed that the baby was thrown out of a passing interurban car and left to die along the tracks.

Should the baby have been thrown there late at night during the recent cold weather, it is entirely possible that it could have died from exposure before morning and as a result its cries could not be heard.

Possibility that the baby died and the parents are too poor to give it a funeral service is also seen.

PAIR IS ARRESTED ON STATUTORY CHARGES

Temporary disposition Wednesday in criminal court of the joint adultery charges against Clifford E. E. Terry, Van Wert, and Mrs. Ocie Kibler, Van Wert, was followed Thursday with the arrest of Mrs. Etta Cole, 302 Public Square, and C. E. Ladd, 720 N. Main-st, on similar charges.

Affidavits against them, both married, filed by Police Inspector George Strick, were pleaded guilty to and sentence deferred by Judge Poling pending further investigation of the case.

Dandruff Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid astringent; apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and you thus will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid astringent at any drug store. Four ounces is all you need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails—Adv.

CHILDREN TAKEN TO COLUMBUS

Pathetic Scene As Blind Boy Leaves Father

OTTAWA—A pathetic scene was enacted in the Putnam-co court house and on the Lima and Toledo interurban car Wednesday, when three children of Peter Cunningham, residing near Miller City, were taken to the school for the blind in Columbus.

Judge H. M. Summers had ruled that for the good of the children they should be taken to the school. One was entirely blind and the other two, verging on that state. The blind child was about 10 years old, and the others, 12 and 15.

Their mother is dead and they resided with their father on a farm.

As soon as the child discovered he was to be separated from his father, he put up a strong objection.

It was necessary for Probation Officer Henry Williams and the conductor on the interurban car to tear the blind child away from the embrace of his father to get him on the car to make the start. Mrs. Williams took the three to the home.

The father declared he could care for them no longer and as he wished them to obtain an education, he was forced to make the sacrifice.

OTTAWA NINE WILL PLAY HOLGATE TEAM ON SUNDAY

OTTAWA—The third game of the season in the baseball series being played this fall to put the Ottawa team in the financial basis for next summer, will be played Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at Beutler's park grounds.

Holgate team will line up against Ottawa at that time.

Holgate so far this season has lost but three games. Hynes will be short stop, Seiden, the colored lad, second base, Sobh, first base, Loh, third base, Kersand, right field, Sobh, left field, Finske, center field, Wanne-macher will pitch the game and Phillips will be catcher.

DELPHOS—Funeral services for Henry Wrasman, aged resident southeast of Delphos, who died suddenly from heart trouble, were held Thursday morning at St. John's Catholic church. Interment was made in St. John's cemetery.

STANDARD OIL GAS CUT CENT AND HALF ON GALLON

Reduction of a cent and a half a gallon for gasoline effective Friday morning was announced by the Lima office of the Standard Oil Co. Thursday, consistent with a similar price reduction thruout Ohio.

Red Crown gasoline is now selling for 20 and a half cents at filling stations while tank wagon price is 18 and a half cents.

Manager of the local office of the Radiant Oil Company, when asked if any price reductions were contemplated by the company, declared the company would take the same action as the Standard Oil Company.

Pure Oil Company and Lilly White Oil Company had not made arrangements to reduce gasoline prices at noon.

Simple Phosphate Supplies Strength and Energy Building Elements That Modern Foods Lack.

Just one or two little tablets of real organic phosphate dispensed in uring capsules under the name of Bero-muda taken with each meal is probably just what you need to cause you to jump out of bed in the morning eager for the industrial battle of the day.

Modern foods lack sufficient phosphate, and that is why 40 per cent of men and women today are nervous, weak and run-down. Bero-phosphate can supply it at reasonable cost—Adv.

COLORED PEOPLE GIVE PROGRAM

Emancipation Day Observed by Fitting Event at Park

Over 300 persons assembled in McBeth park Thursday at 10 a. m. to attend the Emancipation Day program held by the colored people of the city under the auspices of Turner Alexander Post No. 189, American Legion. By noon the attendance had increased to nearly 500, according to Henry Thomas, chairman of the committee on entertainment.

An appropriate program was provided including athletic events, such as foot races, wheelbarrow races, a ball game.

At noon the Ladies' auxiliary to the post, served a delicious luncheon. Light refreshments are to be served at 6 p. m.

One of the features of the program will be dancing which will be held in the pavilion at the park. Music will be furnished by Harmony King's orchestra of Plaqu.

Dancing is expected to continue until late.

STATE INSPECTOR ON SURVEY OF RAIL ROAD CROSSOVERS IN CITY

State, city and Baltimore & Ohio railroad officials Thursday morning made an inspection of every crossing which the railroad has in the city and as a result City Manager Bingham Thursday noon said he was confident that the company will put all its crossings in first class condition before the winter weather comes.

Home Evans, inspector of the public utilities commission; Clarence W. Haynes, trainmaster of the B. & O. and City Manager Bingham made the inspections, spending practically the entire forenoon in the work.

"I am confident that as a result of what the state inspector saw that the railroad company is going to get busy and fix up all its crossings," said Bingham. He hopes to have the state inspector visit the crossings of other roads with a view of getting action to put them in good condition also.

COUNTY OFFICERS DENY CHARGES

Take Issue With Bingham's Attitude on Budget

COUNTY AND CITY SHORT

Bond Issue Declared to be Only Hope

Charges made by Manager Clarence A. Bingham, that practical politicians were conspiring to shipwreck the city's finances to regain control of the city hall, were denied by county officials Thursday.

County Auditor C. R. Phillips, and Treasurer Harry E. Botkins, whose votes fixed the apportionment of the taxes between the city and county, declared that figures submitted by them to the press Wednesday are ample explanation for their action.

TOTAL DIVISION FAVORED

Eugene T. Lippincott, prosecuting attorney, cast a dissenting vote on the apportionment of 1.13 mills to the city and 1.93 mills to the county. He favored an equal division of the 3.06 mills available for operative purposes.

He points out, however, that neither amounts are adequate to pay running expenses of either the city or county.

Both city and county are sinking deeper and deeper into financial ruin year by year, county commissioners declared Thursday in commenting on the budget. They are no better pleased with the amount handed them for county operation than is Manager Bingham.

$116,500 COUNTY DEBT

Commissioners had hoped, they stated, for sufficient sum this year to operate the county and pay off the $166,500 debt which has been piling up since war time.

The amount is gradually growing larger and larger despite the fact that the county has moved under trime deficits since 1919.

The debt was originally incurred, John Thompson, president, declared, when during the war money appropriated for operation was only sufficient to pay one-third of the expenses. Commissioners were forced to sign notes that still lie drawing interest and unpaid.

Prices have never come back to normal while the county income has dwindled lower year by year. Commissioners point out that salaries of employees are higher than years ago and the number has been gradually increased as the business of the county has grown larger.

ADVISES BOND ISSUE

A bond issue, by vote of the people, seems to be the only outlet, commissioners hold.

Auditor Phillips saw some partial relief for county and city in the increase of property valuation of the county this year. Every effort will be made to comb out tax dodgers and put new and of properties on the duplicate at their real valuation.

Collection of outstanding delinquent taxes, if made rigorously, County Treasurer Botkins hopes will bring in many additional thousands of dollars.

MARINE SERVICE GOOD TRAINING FOR YOUNG MEN, SERGEANT LEARNS

Service in the Marines appeals to Allen-co boys as is shown by letters sent to Sergeant Joseph Balla, by two recruits whom he enlisted recently.

Private John T. Hawkins, Company 794 Paris Island, formerly of Delphos, has won rapid promotion since entering service. He is now leader of his squad.

He writes: "This is the best training a man can get. I am getting along fine. I am now squad leader on the rifle range, where we are training for five weeks. Everyone is a man in the Marine Corps."

Private James E. Justice, Company 795, also praises service as a Marine. He says:

"You gave me straight goods when I enlisted. I have arrived in Paris Island, and started training. I like it all right and believe this is the only place for a young man."

GOES ON TRIAL

YOUR OBSTACLES

WE DO our best work under difficulties, the same as an army puts up its best fight when trapped in a corner. No songs ever were written, no orations delivered about an army that had easy picking. Heroic deeds—really big accomplishments—are staged by the warriors who win in the face of desperate odds, such as the handful of men holding the mountain pass or trench until help arrives.

A good thing to keep in mind, when our obstacles seem beyond our powers to handle them.

It's the working of a natural law.

FARMERS and amateur gardeners often wonder why crops can't grow as prolifically and with as much strength as weeds.

This is the answer: Weeds grow wild, with no helping hand, and they have to fight hard for existence or perish. They fight hard. That's why they survive.

Take a garden. The vegetables receive almost constant aid from man. They are, in effect, pampered. Thru many generations they have come to "expect" this outside aid, in the sense that by having this aid supplied to them they have lost much of the natural vigor and initiative of vegetable life in the wild state.

Progressively, as you take the obstacles away, the garden truck becomes weaker in ability to compete for existence with other growing things. So with all of us.

Obstacles are sent to make us fight, thereby developing our powers, our strength.

CARVETH WELLS, explorer, blazed a railroad route thru Malay jungles. He and his crew hacked their way thru the dense wild growth. When they returned, months later, they found that the surveying stakes which they had driven along the path had grown up into tall bamboo trees. That wouldn't happen with domesticated trees, accustomed thru generations to being pampered and aided, and thereby weakened. The bamboo, forced to struggle in competition with millions of other specimens of plant life in the dense jungles, had built up a tremendous power of growth and victory.

You find the same thing in the Far North, where short summer seasons make the struggle for existence so acute and intense that vegetation grows with almost asparagus speed, and spilled grass seed even sprouts in the cinders along railroad tracks. Compare this with the trouble you have growing grass on your lawn.

You have observed how rats and mice flourish and multiply as a reaction to being constantly hunted. So on, all thru the animal kingdom, man included. Success of the able, like survival of the fittest, necessitates a hard struggle—obstacles galore.

OUR PROGRESS

IT'll be the end of 1924 before half of the 22 million homes in our country will be lighted by electricity. Use of electricity in residences is increasing at the rate of a million consumers a year.

With more than half of our homes not using the great marvel, electricity, we realize that our state of civilization still is crude. But we're progressing at least 10 times as fast as any previous century. Man is barely started on his endless road.

AGAINST TOBACCO

DR. CHARLES G. PEASE started his campaign against tobacco in 1907. His first success was the "no smoking" rule in New York subways. Now he's redoubling his effort to put tobacco in the same coffin with John Barleycorn. Backing him is the Non-Smokers' Protective League, big and rapidly growing organization of which he's president. Their fight against the poison, nicotine, is waged on health grounds.

Remember this prediction by Dr. Pease: "The prohibition of tobacco will come suddenly, just as the prohibition of liquor did."

MEDICAL SCHOOLS

A DOCTOR informs us proudly that there now are 445 medical schools in the world, 82 of them in the United States. This means that, for every four million people on earth, there is only one school turning out physicians to care for their health.

However, health is about the last concern of the average person—until he loses it.

—BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

BUT MY FRIENDS

A young woman inquiring whether it is all right to go in swimming, or to keep on with her play, exercise and work, and all that sort of thing, remarks that she had an operation for appendicitis a year ago and that her doctor tells her she should do all these things but her friends say she shouldn't.

This is a surprisingly frequent issue in the letters which come to me. The doctor instructs or advises so and so, but a friend gives different counsel. What should be done in such a quandary? The surprising part of it is that people will (presumably pay a fee for the advice or instruction of the doctor and then run home and swap it for the gratuitous notions of Tom, Dick and Harry—or rather Mrs. Tom, Dick and the Harry woman.

Doctors are always friends. If one doesn't feel that way about it then one is very foolish to consult or employ doctors at all. Doctors are friends but friends are not doctors as a rule. Friends are not even friends when they play this particular role. They cause a powerful amount of misery in the world, all unintentionally.

The uniformed chant a harmonious chorus about the dire consequence which will befall "some day if not now" when a young woman has enough brains to flout their superstitious croakings. It would be funny, were it not taken so seriously by the uneducated classes, to contemplate the future in store for others with some education below the neck who have not permitted their sex to make them morbid.

The young woman has misses opportunities to enjoy a swim or a game of tennis or basketball or a hike or a dance or any other wholesome activity merely because "neighbors" have her scared of her sex is to be pitied. She is sadly behind the times and ignorant of the fundamentals of hygiene. To look the part she is playing she ought to wear a flannel rag around her neck and have some granny nurse rub her wrists with camphor.

This Little World

LONDON

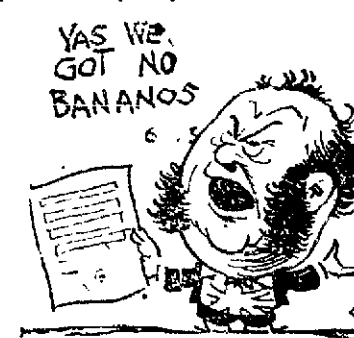

BY MILTON BRONNER

LONDON.—London has become banana-ized. Which means that at last good Britons are humming: "Yes, We Have No Bananas." Moreover, they are dancing to the catchy tune and making a byword of the various lines of the verses that go with it.

This has caused inquiring minds to dig back into London's song past. They say that altho the banana's the recognized humorist of the vegetable world today, there were days when other garden products ruled. For instance, Harry Champion, former music hall favorite, used to amuse his audience with a song whose sweet sentiment was: "I do like pickled onions!"

He had another song in which he professed undying love for the cucumber. Its last line particularly used to send Londoners into roars of mirth: "What I like best is a bit of old cucum."

"Cummy-cummy-cucum—
"A bit of old cucumber."
Also there was something like this: "I love the gentle onion.
"The peaceful onion.
"My taste is a funny 'un
"I love the good old onion."

YAS WE GOT NO BANANOS

"All right, I'm Ford. Glad to meet you."

2. The Frenchman was invited to dine with Ford for the next evening. He arrived all dolled up in evening clothes. Ford was there in his store suit.

"We're going to dine at my factory restaurant," said Ford. And he grinned when he saw the Frenchman's discomfiture.

We Americans are rather given to exaggeration. Also people say we gush. A girl is apt to say she saw millions of autos on the road when, as a matter of fact, she meant a thousand. She will call the same thing in the same conversation "lovely," "too sweet for anything," "dear beyond words," etc., etc.

The other day an English professor was deprecating the new mode of teaching English school girls to gush about English poets. He therefore commended to them the story of the English boy who, impressed with some spectacle, burst into ecstasy: "My hat!"

And was then immediately reproved by his brother—older by one year: "Stop it! Don't gush!"

THE BREEZE FROM THE LAKE

The August sun for three long days Besieged the world with troops of fire;
Restlessly he held the ways
And watched our weakening courage fire.
The breeze was landward, parched
and dry,
Scarce strong enough a leaf to shake,
And turned was many an anxious eye
To catch a ripple on the lake.

We saw a distant cloud arise,
A ship full-sailed and painted black,
But soon the monarch of the skies
Sent out his force and drove it back,
The couriers of the night returned
And brought but tales of pain
and grief:
For miles the fruitful fields were burned—
The lake alone could send relief.

Breeze after breeze by night and

A Thought

Let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath.—Jas.
1:19.

IVE not rein to your inflamed passions; take time and a little delay.—Statius.

Battled the tyrant sun, and fall
Children grew listless in their play
The cheeks of weary mothers
paled.
The trees stood silent, solemn, sad
And seemed to pray: "For my sake,
Send help: The sun will drive me mad!
Lord, send a breeze across the lake!"
We saw a whitecap break the blue,
And then we heard a song we knew—
The whistle of the north wind
stout.
The leaves began to dance with glee
We saw the sun's brown break,
The siege was ended—we were free!
God's breeze had reached us
from the lake.

The healthy look that
DR. CALDWELL'S
SYRUP PEPSIN

Ladies! This Beats Cosmetics

GOOD health cannot be camouflaged by powder and rouge. The eyes will tell. That sparkle and clearness that denote good health will not be there if you are constipated. Mrs. Clara Proctor of Pottersville, Mich., had been told by doctors she had this and that disease, and one advised an operation. But she knew she had been constipated all her life so first tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. She avoided the operation and now feels better than she ever did. Likewise Mrs. William Appleton of Edgington, Pa., who was badly constipated and now looks her best again after using Syrup Pepsin.

On Sale for 30 Years

Intelligent women are realizing that health and mere outward complexion are two different things, and more and more are taking Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Over 10 million bottles were bought in drug stores last year, the largest selling liquid laxative in the world! Go to your druggist and buy a bottle. The cost is less than a cent a dose. You will see how much more effective a spoonful of Syrup

Pepsin is than tablets, powders or pills, and without shock to the system.

Safe Family Laxative

Use it regularly a day before and a day after the periods. The gentle emptying of the bowels will give you relief, and lessen headaches and congestion. Take a spoonful at bed-time and see how much better you feel in the morning. It is a vegetable compound of Egg-plant seeds and pepsin with agreeable aromatics, and entirely safe not only for you but for the youngest child. Keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the home for you or some other member of the family may need it any moment to relieve constipation, to break up fevers and colds, to clear up biliousness, indigestion, a plump, a fever sore and other disturbances that show constipation.

Not more than one free trial bottle to a family.

OBSERVERS HAVE EYES ON SKYTwo Comets Discovered Years Ago Due to Appear

SCHEDULED TO APPEAR NOW

Comets Seen by Professor Over 80 Years Ago

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—(Associated Press)—Astronomers are on the watch for two comets, both discovered many decades ago, which speeding over their rather uncertain courses thru the skies, are about due for reappearance.

One of these interesting visitors is Di Vico's "long period" comet of 1846, popularly known as the Mexican War comet because just on the outbreak of that conflict, it was observed by Professor W. C. Bond, of the Harvard Observatory, on Feb. 26, 1846. Professor P. Di Vico, of Rome, also found the comet independently with his telescope two days later, and because he officially recorded its coming, his fellow astronomers have given it his name.

Professor Di Vico observed his comet godson for two months, when it passed from view. It was reckoned that it would reappear in 73.71 years, with a "period of uncertainty" of three years. In 1919 it was within 200,000,000 miles of the earth, somewhere between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter, and the scientists of the skies decided that it might appear to them any time between 1921 and 1925. When it does come, it will not be visible to "the man in the street," Harvard College Observatory officials say. Comets, they explain may at any time be thrown completely out of their accustomed course by getting too near the sun or a planet, these bodies acting so as to give the stranger a sort of "kick" to one side or the other.

SECOND COMET
The second comet that astronomers are on the lookout for this year is that discovered by and named for Dr. Arrest, who saw it from Leipzig June 27, 1851. It returned in 1857, 1870, 1877, 1890, 1897 and 1910. It was due in 1917 but the telescope failed to find it. Astronomical calculations showed that it might be seen, "by telescope only," on 25 or 30 dates of 1923, but the astronomers of the world who report their discoveries to the Harvard Observatory as a clearing house of information, have not picked it up as yet.

Its schedule calls for visibility in various parts of the heavens with the aid of high powered lenses on September 8, 13, 18, 23 and 28 and October 3, 8, 13 and 18.

The Harvard Observatory does not specialize on investigating comets, only because its location does not lend itself to such observations as well as do those of other astronomical stations in the United States and Europe. In this country, the observa-

PRISON RELIEF
HIS LIFE TASK

WASHINGTON—(Special)—Is the criminal as black as he's painted? Generally not, says Earl E. Dudding, head of the Prisoners' Relief Society, with headquarters in Washington. Dudding himself spent four years in the Moundville (W. Va.) prison, following conviction on a charge of second degree murder. His plea was self-defense.

Released, he devoted his life to relieving, both within and without the bars, the lot of men who have fallen athwart the law.

He finds jobs annually for thousands of convicts released from the country's penitentiaries, and so well has he established his contention that the average convict is a victim of circumstances rather than a deliberate wrong-doer, that today 20,000 representative employers of labor take his word as a bond for any ex-convict trying to win back to respectability.

"And more than 90 per cent of such men," says Dudding, "have made good. Of the few who slip, the greater number are mental defectives."

AT ROWLANDS

It has always been our store policy to give our customers the benefit of the fortunate purchases we make. Recently we made arrangements with the Pullman Couch Company, manufacturers of the famous "perfect davenport-bed," to ship us one entire carload of their merchandise. As a result of our huge purchase we offer genuine Pullmans — at prices that are astonishingly low. Come tomorrow and see our complete display.

Tremendous Values
in All Pullmans!

Every Pullman on our floor is especially priced—the result is an exhibit of rare bargains. Pullmans may be had with chair and rocker to match—thus you have a complete living room suite—plus the advantages of an extra bedroom. You will have a broad range of styles, coverings and finishes to select from. Whatever your choice may be—if it's a Pullman WE KNOW YOU WILL BE SATISFIED! Pullman merchandise is MADE RIGHT from the finest materials with the best of workmanship. Of course, we personally guarantee every Pullman that we sell.

Only One of the Many Bargains

Here is a three piece suite that is worthy of a place in your living room. There is not the slightest suggestion that the davenport contains a bed. The Pullman revolving seat bed fixture absolutely conceals the fact in construction. The above suite is covered in best grade imitation leather and the finish is golden oak.

What a Pullman
Means to You

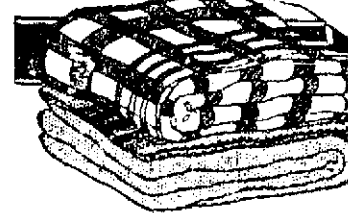

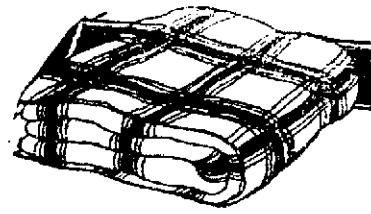

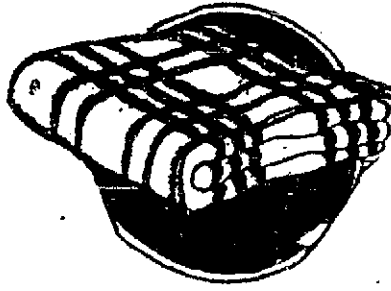

A Pullman in your home is full assurance that you can always extend hospitality to an unexpected guest. One simple operation—(as easy as opening a dresser drawer) converts the beautiful Pullman davenport into a full size, restful bed.

Thus you have all of the conveniences of an additional bedroom without the increased cost of rent and upkeep.

Many families have entirely solved the high rent problem through the purchase of a Pullman. Truly, this is the most practical and efficient piece of furniture for the home. Its service extends over the full twenty-four hours.

If you have a room for rent, a Pullman enables you to increase its revenue—because you can offer practically two rooms.

In appearance the Pullman is identical to an expensive stationary davenport. It also affords ample comfort as a living room piece.

Genuine All-Wool
BLANKETS
Given Away

One pair genuine all-wool Blankets given away without extra cost with the purchase of a Pullman Living Room Suite or a Pullman Davenport during this week only. Several colors and plaids to choose from. These Blankets are of the highest grade and were made at the Lima Woolen Mills.

Only $5.00 Down Places a Pullman in Your Home!

Think of it—only $5.00 and a Pullman is delivered to your home; to be paid for in small payments as you gain the benefits from its use.

We want you to come in tomorrow and see a Pullman. A special factory representative will be on hand to demonstrate it. See the ease in which one can be instantly changed from davenport to bed. In short—come in and see why they call it the "perfect bed-davenport."

Be Sure and See the Big Pullman Factory Demonstration!

NORTHWEST CORNER SQUARE

Sieve Woven Finer Than Silk

Raw materials of which portland cement is made come out of the ground usually as solid rock.

They must first be crushed, ground and reground until at least 85 per cent of the resulting powder will shake through a sieve that will actually hold water.

This sieve is considerably finer than the finest silk fabric. It has 200 hair-like bronze wires to the inch. That means 40,000 holes to the square inch.

But the several crushings and grindings necessary to reduce solid rock to this extreme fineness are only the beginning of cement making.

The powdered materials must then be subjected to intense heat for several hours in huge rotary kilns. Here they are half melted and become a substance much harder than the original rock—clinker, it is called.

Then the clinker must be crushed and ground until at least 78 per cent of the resulting product will pass through the sieve woven finer than silk. This is portland cement.

More than 80 power and fuel consuming operations are necessary in cement making. The electric power alone used in producing a barrel of portland cement would, if purchased at usual household rates, cost $1.70.

Few manufactured products go through so involved or complicated a process as portland cement. And it sells for less per pound than any comparable manufactured product.

FRENCH CAPITAL TOO SMALL

City Overcrowded By Great Flocks Of Foreigners

People Of Paris Find Obtaining Homes Difficult Problem

PARIS—(United Press)—When you see every day in the newspapers advertisements offering anywhere from 1,000 to 3,000 francs ($60 to $180) to some kind of apartment who will find an apartment for the advertiser, it is not difficult to deduce that there is in Paris what they call a "home C. S. S." In other words, it is mighty hard to find a place to lay one's head, especially if there is a family to be provided for.

There are many reasons for this state of things. First of all, apartment house owners, like others who are looking for a big return on their investment, have doubled, tripled and quadrupled the rents since the armistice. Flats which were rented at sums representing about $20 a year are now bringing a thousand. The law safeguarding occupants of apartments before the war against arbitrary increases in rent has run its course. Only those who had leases of ten or fifteen years are exempt now.

PARIS TOO SMALL

Paris is too small for the population which has come here since the war. Foreigners are flocking to the French capital. Hotel prices are high and therefore they are looking for apartments, furnished or not. Usually they can get a furnished flat, with a prewar rent of a couple of thousand francs a year, for five or six francs a month, provided they buy the furniture, too—which means paying thirty or fifty thousand francs for something which could be bought in a furniture store for one-fifth of the price.

Everybody who has any kind of a flat is hanging onto it. When Leon Bourgeois was elected president of the senate—a post entitling him to live in the senate building—he had to wait four months to go in because his predecessor couldn't find a place to live. If a statesman finds himself in that predicament it is easy to imagine what the ordinary Parisian has to put up with.

When the war demonstrated that the fortifications of Paris, erected according to the designs of Vauban at a cost of many millions of dollars, were utterly useless to stop the advance of an invader the municipal council decided to raze them and open up the suburbs. At the time there was a question of utilizing the space thus gained for the erection of homes, but opposition in the council has prevented the realization of this project.

HAVE N. Y. APARTMENTS

On the other hand, several building construction companies have started erecting a series of apartment houses on the New York system, with all modern improvements, to be purchased outright by the occupants, payments being on the installment system, whereby the payment of rent for a term of ten to twenty years gives title to the apartment.

The municipal council itself has taken a hand in the problem and apartments for workers are being built in the outlying sections of the city at a comparatively moderate rental considering the enormous increase in the cost of living and the improvements which are being inaugurated.

REICHSTAG MAY BE SUMMONED

German Solons Likely to Act on Ruhr Situation

BERLIN — (United Press) — Detailed terms of the cabinet's decision to abandon passive resistance in the Ruhr were eagerly awaited here today, as the government struggled to maintain a united front inside the nation.

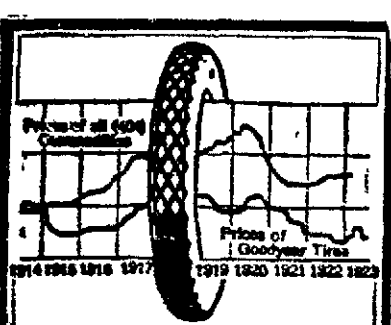

It was considered likely the reichstag will be summoned to convene towards the end of next week. When it does convene, verbal fireworks over the Ruhr, currency and other topics are expected.

From details already available, it was known the new offer has a decidedly "capitulative spirit." Chancellor Stresemann no longer insists on immediate restoration of German disposition of the Ruhr and the Rhineland.

The cabinet, in its offer thru the Belgian ambassador naturally avoided the term capitulation, but there can be no question of the substance of the decision for it was held impossible to continue resistance either fully or partially for any length of time.

Hence resistance must stop regardless of the outcome of the latest negotiations.

It was hoped a reply to the terms transmitted thru the Belgian representative might be received today, but this does not mean that any official statement will be issued either

Solomon Hecht Sees Boyhood Town After Many Years

Solomon Hecht, a former Lima man, is again in Lima after an absence of many years.

Hecht, who is stopping at the Barr hotel during his short visit in the city, is renewing acquaintances with persons he associated with in his younger days.

While residing in Lima Hecht was active in many public-spirited projects and was a member of Company C. of Lima. He recalls that in his days keen rivalry existed between Lima and Findlay, Lima having a population of 13,000 and Findlay one of 15,000. He said he votes with no little pride that Lima today has more than twice the population of its once rival city.

After Hecht left Lima he engaged in newspaper work and was on the editorial staff of the New York World. Later he purchased a weekly newspaper, the Civil Service Chronicle, which he edited 10 years. The war, however, seriously affected the publication and it was discontinued.

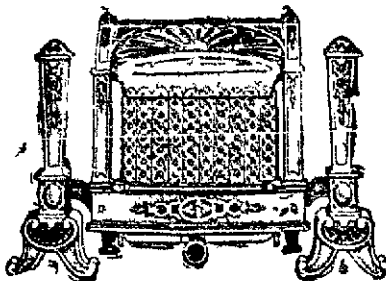

Hecht is now associated with his brothers in the Hecht Fixture Co. of Chicago.

YOUR OBSTACLES

WE DO our best work under difficulties, the same as an army puts up its best fight when trapped in a corner. No songs ever were written, no orations delivered about an army that had easy picking. Heroic deeds—really big accomplishments—are staged by the warriors who win in the face of desperate odds, such as the handful of men holding the mountain pass or trench until help arrives.

A good thing to keep in mind, when our obstacles seem beyond our powers to handle them.
It's the working of a natural law.

FARMERS and amateur gardeners often wonder why crops can't grow as prolifically and with as much strength as weeds.

This is the answer: Weeds grow wild, with no helping hand, and they have to fight hard for existence or perish. They fight hard. That's why they survive.

Take a garden. The vegetables receive almost constant aid from man. They are, in effect, pampered. Thru many generations they have come to "expect" this outside aid, in the sense that by having this aid supplied to them they have lost much of the natural vigor and initiative of vegetable life in the wild state.

Progressively, as you take the obstacles away, the garden truck becomes weaker in ability to compete for existence with other growing things. So with all of us.

Obstacles are sent to make us fight, thereby developing our powers, our strength.

CARVETH WELLS, explorer, blazed a railroad route thru Malay jungles. He and his crew hacked their way thru the dense wild growth. When they returned, months later, they found that the surveying stakes which they had driven along the path had grown up into tall bamboo trees. That wouldn't happen with domesticated trees, accustomed thru generations to being pampered and aided, and thereby weakened. The bamboo, forced to struggle in competition with millions of other specimens of plant life in the dense jungles, had built up a tremendous power of growth and victory.

You find the same thing in the Far North, where short summer seasons make the struggle for existence so acute and intense that vegetation grows with almost asparagus speed, and spilled grass seed even sprouts in the cinders along railroad tracks. Compare this with the trouble you have growing grass on your lawn.

You have observed how rats and mice flourish and multiply as a reaction to being constantly hunted. So on, all thru the animal kingdom, man included. Success of the able, like survival of the fittest, necessitates a hard struggle—obstacles galore.

OUR PROGRESS

IT'LL be the end of 1924 before half of the 22 million homes in our country will be lighted by electricity. Use of electricity in residences is increasing at the rate of a million consumers a year.

With more than half of our homes not using the great marvel, electricity, we realize that our state of civilization still is crude. But we're progressing at least 10 times as fast as any previous century. Man is barely started on his endless road.

AGAINST TOBACCO

DR. CHARLES G. PEASE started his campaign against tobacco in 1907. His first success was the "no smoking" rule in New York subways. Now he's redoubling his effort to put tobacco in the same coffin with John Barleycorn. Backing him is the Non-Smokers' Protective League, big and rapidly growing organization of which he's president. Their fight against the poison, nicotine, is waged on health grounds.

Remember this prediction by Dr. Pease: "The prohibition of tobacco will come suddenly, just as the prohibition of liquor did."

MEDICAL SCHOOLS

A DOCTOR informs us proudly that there now are 445 medical schools in the world, 82 of them in the United States. This means that, for every four million people on earth, there is only one school turning out physicians to care for their health.

However, health is about the last concern of the average person—until he loses it.

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

BUT MY FRIENDS

A young woman inquiring whether it is all right to go in swimming, or to keep on with her play, exercise and work, and all that sort of thing, remarks that she had an operation for appendicitis a year ago and that her doctor tells her she should do all these things but her friends say she shouldn't.

This is a surprisingly frequent issue in the letters which come to me. The doctor instructs or advises so and so, but a friend gives different counsel. What should be done in such a quandary? The surprising part of it is that people will (presumably pay a fee for the advice or instruction of the doctor and then run home and away! for the gratuitous notions of Tom, Dick and Harry—or rather Mrs. Tom, Dick and the Harry woman.

Doctors are always friends. If one doesn't feel that way about it then one is very foolish to consult or employ doctors at all. Doctors are friends but friends are not doctors as a rule. Friends are not even friends when they play this particular role. They cause a powerful amount of misery in the world, all unintentionally.

The uninformed chant a harmonious chorus about the dire consequence which will befall "some day if not now" when a young woman has enough brains to flout their superstitious croakings. It would be funny, were it not taken so seriously by the uneducated classes, to contemplate the future in store for others with some education below the neck who have not permitted their sex to make them morbid.
The young woman he misses opportunities to enjoy a swim or a game of tennis or basketball or a hike or a dance or any other wholesome activity merely because "neighbors" have her scared of her sex is to be pitied. She is sadly behind the times and ignorant of the fundamentals of hygiene. To look the part she is playing she ought to wear a flameol rag around her neck and have some granny nurse rub her wrists with camphor.

This Little World

LONDON

BY MILTON BRONNER

LONDON.—London has become banana-ized. Which means that at last good Britons are humming:
"Yes, We Have No Bananas."

Moreover, they are dancing to the catchy tune and making a byword of the various lines of the verses that go with it.

This has caused inquiring minds to dig back into London's song past. They say that altho the bananas the recognized humorist of the vegetable world today, there were days when other garden products ruled. For instance, Harry Champion, former music hall favorite, used to amuse his audience with a song whose sweet sentiment was:

"I do like pickled onions!"

He had another song in which he professed undying love for the cucumber. Its last line particularly used to send Londoners into roars of mirth:

"What I like best is a bit of old cucum."
"Cummy-cummy-cum—"
"A bit of old cucumber."
Also there was something like this:

"I love the gentle onion,
"The peaceful onion."
"My taste is a funny 'un
"I love the good old onion."

A French engineer recently in our country, has given a French paper
two yarns about Ford:

1. The Frenchman had an appointment with Ford at his residence. He rang the door-bell, but got no reply. He noticed an oldish chap in oldish clothes digging at some flower beds on the lawn.

"My good fellow, is M. Ford at home?" asked the Frenchman.

"What do you have with him?"
"I am X. I have an appointment with him."

JUST FOLKS

By Edgar A. Guest

THE BREEZE FROM THE LAKE

The August sun for three long days Besieged the world with troops of
fire;

Restlessly he held the ways
And watched our weakening courage tire.

The breeze was landward, parched
and dry,
Scarce strong enough a leaf to
shake,

And turned was many an anxious
eye
To catch a ripple on the lake.

We saw a distant cloud arise,
A ship full-sailed and painted
black,

But soon the monarch of the skies
back.

The couriers of the night returned
And brought but tales of pain
and grief:

For miles the fruitful fields were burned—
The lake alone could send relief.

day

Battled the tyrant sun, and telled
Children grew listless in their play,
The cheeks of weary mothers
paled.

The trees stood silent, solemn, sad,
And seemed to pray: "For mer-cy's sake,
Send help! The sun will drive us mad!"

Lord, send a breeze across the lake!"

We saw a whitecap break the
blue,
And then we heard a song we knew—

The whistle of the north wind
stout.

The leaves began to dance with glee,
We saw the sun's brown forces
break.

The siege was ended—we were free!

God's breeze had reached us
from the lake.

DR. CALDWELL'S
SYRUP PEPSIN
Gives is Nature's Own

Ladies! This Beats Cosmetics

GOOD health cannot be car-mouflaged by powder and rouge. The eyes will tell. That sparkle and clearness that denote good health will not be there if you are constipated. Mrs. Clara Proctor of Pottersville, Mich., had been told by doctors she had this and that disease, and one advised an operation, but she knew she had been constipated all her life so first tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. She avoided the operation and now feels better than she ever did. Likewise Mrs. William Appleton of Edgington, Pa., who was badly constipated and now looks her best again after using Syrup Pepsin.

Safe Family Laxative
Use it regularly a day before and a day after the periods. The gentle emptying of the bowels will give you relief, and lessen headaches and congestion. Take a spoonful at bed-time and see how much better you feel in the morning. It is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsia with agreeable aromatics, and entirely safe not only for you but for the youngest child. Keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the home for you or some other member of the family may need it any moment to relieve constipation, to break up fevers and colds, to ward up biliousness, indigestion, a simple fever sore and other disturbances that show constipation.

On Sale for 30 Years Intelligent women are realizing that health and mere outward

PIANO PRODIGY WILL APPEAR IN RECITAL

PLANS for the appearance here of Miss Evelyn Woods of Toledo, five year old pianist, on October 12th were made at the meeting of the Women's Board of Managers of the City Hospital, Wednesday morning. Little Miss Woods was to have appeared here in May under the auspices of the board, but her engagement was cancelled at the eleventh hour because of illness. The tickets which were purchased for the first recital, will be used on the new date. Single admissions will also be sold at the door. The concert will be at Memorial Hall.

It was decided at the meeting of the board Wednesday that a vote of thanks be extended to the women and girls who helped during the day held last Saturday and to the public for their willing response. Final reports showed the money taken in as $1726.00.

Initial steps were taken for a "Donation Day" to be held the latter part of October for a rummage sale to take place early in November.

Mrs. E. G. Wendock is president of the board.

Invitations were issued Wednesday by Mrs. Russell Young, State-st., for a bridge-club to be given at the Shawnee Country Club, Wednesday, September 26th at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. William R. Bricker and daughter, Miss Lucille, of Philadelphia, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Jolley, Elmwood Place.

Carl Plummer left Tuesday for Culver Military Institute, where he will resume his studies. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Plummer, State-st.

Mrs. Minnie Treaster, Kalb-apts., left Wednesday for a month's trip. After visiting in Kansas City, Mo., for a short time, she will go to Oklahoma City, Okla., to be the guest of her son, Howard D. Treaster. Before returning she will visit her other son, R. Claude Treaster in Omaha, Neb.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart: I am not live in Lima, I see the Lima News occasionally and thought maybe you could help me. I am 17 years old and engaged to the best young man in the world. I have known him for several months. At present he is at his home in Indiana.

My mother died when I was 10 and my father two years ago. I live with an aunt of my mother's.

We plan to be married Christmas time. People tell me I'll be sorry if I marry so young. Do you think I would regret it?

I don't want you to think I am marrying just for a home. I've had many chances but would marry except for love.

Please advise me here, too. Would it be all right for me to go out with other fellows when my fiance is not here? He didn't tell me I couldn't go, but I don't know just what to do.

Yours truly,
SUSIE SMART

Yours last question makes it easy to answer your first. Surely if you were wholly in love with your fiance, or if you were old enough to realize the responsibilities of an engagement, you would not accept attentions from any other man than your fiance and that you would be content without such attentions.

I hardly think you are old enough to be even engaged. Why not wait a year or more?

Dear Miss Smart: I am a girl 17 and am deeply infatuated with a man of 25. My parents won't let me marry him, but he has a good salary and could give me a fine home. How can I make my parents see this as a happy event?

UNHAPPY SEVENTEEN.

Your parents are very sensible in refusing to give their consent to your marriage now. You are extremely young to marry, and certainly too young to be going around with a man 25. Go with boys and girls your own age and obey your parents. Don't try to make them see your way of thinking, for you would find out later that it is not the correct way.

You speak of this man's ability to give you a fine home, you say nothing of his character and personality. Those are the things that really count when choosing a husband.

Dear Miss Smart: I want you to help me. There is a young man who has been going with me for nearly six months. I am sure he loves me but he is very quiet and has not told me so yet. How can I make him see I love him?

WORRIED.

Even though the young man may be quiet and reserved, worried, it is not likely he is waiting for you to tell him you love him before he tells you of his liking for you.

Surely you give him sufficient encouragement when you accept his attentions and are cordial in your manner.

Dear Miss Smart: I am a young man of 15. I go with a girl two years younger and I am deeply in love with her. Do you think this difference in age is too much?

The difference in age is not great enough to be of any consequence. However, you are extremely young to be taking this affair so seriously. By the time you are old enough and in a financial position to justify marriage you may be interested in someone else.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

WEDNESDAY EVENING

Parmenter-Reid wedding, First Baptist church, 6:30 o'clock. Reception to follow at Shawnee Country Club.

Mother's club, Mrs. R. A. Fry. Crusaders of First Congregational church, Miss Olive and Anna Blodgett.

THURSDAY

Ladies' Day, Shawnee Country Club.

Members of all women organizations of First Baptist church to meet at church for luncheon.

Ideal club, Mrs. A. H. Beecher afternoon.

Miss Marlene Prosser to entertain at bridge, Elks' home.

Miss Meredith Shifferly to entertain at dinner, at home, for Miss Barr.

Mrs. L. C. Bogart, 1140 W. Wayne-st., presided at an informal luncheon at the Hotel Argonne Wednesday, having as her guests members of the Ramblers Bridge club. The luncheon table, set in the main dining room, had a platter basket of various shades of asters as a centerpiece, while the place cards and nut cups were of corresponding shades. The mezzanine floor was the scene of the afternoon's bridge games, when three tables were filled for play.

Guests of Mrs. Bogart were Mrs. Frank Kennedy, Mrs. Carl Means, Mrs. James Anderson, Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mrs. J. J. Pettit, Mrs. Guy Means, Mrs. H. D. Rohn, Mrs. Frederick Willower, Mrs. Harry Baldwin, Mrs. John Armstrong and Mrs. Otto Poole of Waynesfield.

Miss Marie McClure and Miss Yvonne Glentzer entertained the members of the Lenore Guild at Miss McClure's home, N. McDonald-st., Monday evening. Following a business session, when Misses Zula Roebuck and Pauline Tilley were admitted as new members, the hostesses served a two-course luncheon.

Those present were Misses Etadene Brown, Dellana Ward, Mildred Downing, Ruth and Esther Brodbeck, Lucille Webb, Wilma Hardy, Frances Cochran, Hazel Stewart, Vera North, Rowena Ward, Zula Roebuck, Pauline Tilley, Mildred Clark, Thelma McClure, Helen Post, Mrs. William Morris, Mrs. Leo McClure and Mrs. H. J. McElherry.

The club will meet in a fortnight with Miss Vera North, S. Metcalf-st., Miss Ruth and Zula Roebuck will be assistant hostesses.

Cablegrams were received in this city Wednesday announcing the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cowan at their home in Paris Tuesday. The child has been named Joseph, Jr.

The Cowans formerly resided in the Barbara Ann Court-apts.

"Immigration Laws" was the subject of the discussion and parliamentary drill led by Mrs. George Clayton at the meeting of the Delphos club at her home, Wednesday afternoon. The program followed a short business session.

Ten was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren McLaughlin and daughters, Nancy and Betty, W. Elm-st., have returned from a six weeks' stay at Walton Lake, Ind.

Clarence McPherson, son of D. I. McPherson, State-st., and Billie Banta, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Banta, S. Cole-st., have departed for Howe, Ind., where they will enter Howe Military Institute.

Miss Esther Plummer, S. Baxter-st., entertained a group of friends at bridge Tuesday evening as an informal compliment to her houseguest, Miss Genevieve Barr of Pittsburgh. Four tables were filled for the card games at the conclusion of which, Miss Ruth Hawisher held high score. Miss Barr was given an attractive gift.

Mrs. S. A. Plummer, mother of the hostess, assisted in serving a two-course luncheon.

Guests were Misses Constance Mayer, Ruth Hawisher, Ruth Wisenbath, Miriam Johnson, Althea Ludwig, Mary Kerr, Frances Christen, Geo. Morton, Meredith Shifferly, Gertrude and Ruth McCray, Mary Jolley, Mildred Polser, Edith Wilton and Elizabeth Douglass.

Mrs. Zeal Bedford was elected president of the Young Ladies' Auxiliary of the Grace M. E. church at a meeting held with Mrs. Howard Napier, S. Elizabeth-st., Tuesday evening. Mrs. Bedford was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Thelma Dotkins.

Miss Maude Miller was elected secretary of literature at the meeting Tuesday night. Devotionals were in charge of Mrs. Nina Fisher.

Following the business, an enjoyable social session was held. Mrs. Myrtle Hackenberger assisted during the evening.

Mrs. C. H. Smith of Springfield, will speak at a one o'clock luncheon at the First Baptist church, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Smith will discuss the benefits derived from the formation of a federation of women's organizations in the church.

It is probable that such a federation will be formed by the First Baptist church women.

Attending the affair will be all members of the various church societies of the church.

Mrs. F. C. Moyer, 204 N. McDonald-st., will entertain the members of the Argonne Club at her home, Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Pletcher were honored guests at a affair at their home, 351 S. Charles-st., Tuesday evening, when a group of friends arrived, unannounced, to help celebrate their tenth wedding anniversary. A most enjoyable evening was spent and refreshments served. Mr. and Mrs. Pletcher were the recipients of a "miscellaneous" shower.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wetherill, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Iman, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Barden, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Steiner, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Munnaugh, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Paine, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Keating, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Sherick, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McClain, Mrs. Lora Keating and Miss Ruth Keating.

Members of the Queen Esther Circle of Calvary Reformed church will meet Wednesday evening with Miss Eleanor Gekeler, 219 S. Cole-st.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bourdelle, of Hull, Ill., are the guests of Mrs. Lydia Sheely, Brice-av.

Mrs. Parker Vickery of Fort Bragg, N. C., and Mrs. James Kisser, of Middletown are the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kelley, E. Franklin-st.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cohorn, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Neal, N. West-st., for several weeks, left Wednesday for their home in Pensacola, Fla. They made the trip by motor.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McClain, W. Market-st., have as their guest, Mrs. Thomas Bowman of Upper Sandusky.

More than sixty-five tables have been reserved at the benefit bridge party to be given at the Hotel Argonne, Friday afternoon, by the members of the Allen County Welfare Board. Women who have arranged to attend are asked to note the change from the Elks home to the Hotel Argonne.

Play will begin at 2:15 o'clock. Mrs. Roy Banta and Mrs. W. E. Bayly are in charge.

Miss Anna Murphy, N. West-st., leaves the latter part of the week for Toledo, where she will enter Mary Nanso College.

Rev. Franklin L. Stiles of Middletown, former pastor of the First Baptist church here, is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. J. K. Bannister, S. Jameson-av. Rev. Stiles will be one of the officiating ministers at the Parmenter-Reid wedding, Wednesday night.

Miss Janet White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. White, W. Market-st., leaves Wednesday evening for Wellesley college, where she will study during the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Blank, Bellefontaine-av., have returned from a six weeks' tour thru northern Michigan. They spent some time at Messaukee Lake, Michigan.

Mrs. William Fick, 1305 E. Elm-st., will entertain the members of the Friendship club at her home Thursday afternoon.

Robert Mitchell of Mechanicsburg arrived on Wednesday to be the guest for a few days of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Clark, State hospital.

Miss Meredith Shifferly is entertaining at dinner Thursday evening, honoring Miss Barr. Miss Shifferly is entertaining at her home, 707 College-av.

Miss Dorothy Frankel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Frankel, W. Market-st., will conduct a dancing school at the Lima club during the coming winter. Classes will begin October sixth.

Last year Miss Frankel attended Dartington Seminary, Philadelphia, where she specialized in dancing.

Mrs. M. S. Thompson will be hostess at the afternoon's bridge games. As this is the final bridge of the year, it is hoped that all the women members of the club and their out-of-town guests will attend.

Miss Mary Parmenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Parmenter, will become the bride of Leslie Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Reid, at an elaborate church wedding at the First Baptist church, Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The nuptials will begin at 6:15 o'clock.

Following the service at the church, the wedding reception will be held at the Shawnee Country Club.

Mrs. Albert Wetzel of Dayton, who is the house-guest of Mrs. O. J. Neuman, W. High-st., was complimented at an informal evening of bridge on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. R. G. Kuhn, W. North-st. Mrs. O. J. Neuman was hostess at the affair. At the conclusion of the games Mrs. Kuhn held high score. A two-course luncheon was served.

Guests were Mrs. Carl Kominski, Mrs. Earl Dorsey, Mrs. J. Edgar Smith, Mrs. Thomas Cook, Mrs. Clem Crow, Mrs. Kuhn and Mrs. Wetzel.

Honoring Mrs. Wetzel, Mrs. Carl Kominski is entertaining at a bridge at her home in Jean Court, Friday evening.

Election of officers will take place at a business meeting of the Ladies' Golf club of the Shawnee Country club to be held before the luncheon at the club on Thursday. Mrs. J. E. Sullivan is the retiring president and Miss Mary Parmenter, retiring secretary.

In the morning, the two-ball fore-somes will be played.

IF YOUR HAT ISN'T LARGE AND BROAD, THIS AUTUMN WITH HAND-MADE TRIMMING AT LEAST DISTINGUISH IT

BY MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK — (Special) — Wear a large hat with your best bib and tucker, and you may take your way serenely to the most exclusive social function. Besides, the large hat is almost universally becoming.

Quantities of velvet go to make it and it is softly shirred and draped and turned gradually from the face.

Large shapes of black velvet are faced in taffeta and covered with metallic ribbon made into flower effects and other designs. Sometimes the metallic ribbon is worked directly in the making of the hat.

A great deal of maline is used as well. But whether the hat is large or small or one of those conservatively trimmed affairs that go so well with a veil, it is the trimming which distinguishes it. And the trimming must be hand made.

Large calla lilies, made of duvetyne and palleted in brown and gold, trim a hat of brown panne velvet.

Small morning glories of black satin painted in silver adorn a small mushroom shape of black.

Appliques of hand made flowers in many colors are used on brim and crown. A poke shape of brown velvet has a brim of brown nacre flowers and leaves, while a silver cloth small poke has large flowers of silver lace, high at the front.

A rather deep cloche shape of brown hatter's plush has the crown made entirely of tan and peach colored velvet, the folds being laid in the form of flowers. One of the novel shapes is of reseda velvet with a three-corner brim developed entirely of crushed flower effects in three shades of deep rose and two of green.

Almost anyone would look piquant and fetching in the shapes illustrated at the top right. It is of brown panne and has the wide flare of brown lace and buds adorn the brim proper.

The tight little shape in the middle below, is of black velvet. Silk wool closely twisted into a sem-blance of flowers and leaves provides the decoration. And the large satin bound circlets which fall to the shoulder give quite the effect of earrings.

Green duvetyne is the material used in the hat at the left. The brim is faced on the under side with a darker green, while a crushed roll of lighter green runs entirely around the crown. The veil is one of the popular scarf veils embroidered in metallic thread.

"Isle of Retribution"

By Edison Marshall

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Ned and Leslie, who are engaged to marry, are shipwrecked on a remote island. The island is occupied by a few natives, and the two are forced to live with them. The natives are very friendly, but they have a strange custom. They believe in a god named Doo-m-s-dorf, and they worship him. They believe that Doo-m-s-dorf is a god of war, and they are always at war with each other. They believe that Doo-m-s-dorf is a god of war, and they are always at war with each other. They believe that Doo-m-s-dorf is a god of war, and they are always at war with each other.

NEED GO ON WITH THE STORY

Ned did not wait to catch the full force of the blow. His powerful arms were hard in these last days of his life. He drove him out and up to the top of the cliff. His long body seemed to meet that of the other. Then they rolled together into the drifts.

The wolf wagged free, sending Ned and Leslie into the flesh under the arm, and for a breath of time they seemed to be playing a game of hide-and-seek. The wolf was suddenly immensely surprised. It depended solely on the wolf's will whether it would attack or not. Ned had the physical strength to push back the shaggy head and after the vertebrae.

There was still a thousand half-dead groans from Ned's side. His head seemed to be floating in the air. His heart was quivering. His eyes were full of strange, half-frenzied fire. And then Ned gave up the struggle.

He broke with a distinct crack. A white smoke came from his mouth. And as he fell back, the great white form lay down and a lump in his body. Ned stripped the warm body of the dead man and found his line. He was able to think more clearly now and consider methods. And by the same token, he was brought to face the fact of the almost insurmountable obstacles in his path. From first of all seemed to be a simple matter. Doo-m-s-dorf's took precautions against a night attack. The squaw slept on the outside of their cot and would be as difficult to pass without arousing as a sleeping dog. The cabin itself was bolted, not to be entered without waking both occupants; and the three prisoners of course slept in the newer cabin.

Ned was working that part of the line from his Twelve-Mile cabin over the ridge toward the Forks cabin—his old rendezvous with Bess. He was somewhat late in crossing the range today. The blazed trail took him around the shoulder of the ridge, clear to the edge of a little, deeply seamed glacier such as crowns so many of the larger hills in the far North.

Few were the wild creatures that traversed this icy desolation, so his trap line had been laid out around the glacier, following the blazed trail in the scrub timber. But today the long way round was particularly grievous to his spirit. More than a mile could be saved by leaving the timber and climbing across the ice, and only a few sets, none of which had ever proved especially productive, would be missed.

Without an instant's hesitation he turned from the trail straight over the snowy summit toward the cabin. The cut-off would save him the annoyance of making camp after dark. And since he had climbed it once before, he scarcely felt the need of extra caution.

The crossing, however, was not quite the same as on the previous occasion. Before the ice had been covered, completely across, with a heavy snowfall, no harder to walk on than the open barrens. He soon found, now that the snow prevailed only to the summit of the glacier, and the descent beyond the summit had been swept clean by the winds.

Below him stretched a half-mile of glare ice, ivory white like the fangs of some fabulous beast of prey. Here and there it was gashed with crevices—those deep glacier chasms into which a stone falls in silence. For a moment Ned regarded it with considerable displeasure.

He decided to take a chance. He removed his snowshoes and ventured carefully out upon the ice. It was easier than it looked. His moccasins clung very well. Steadily gaining confidence, he walked at a faster pace. The slope was not much on this side, the glacier ending in an abrupt cliff many hundred feet in height, so he felt little need of especial precaution. It was, in fact, the easiest walking that he had since his arrival upon the island, so he decided not to turn off clear until he reached the high ground just to one side of the ice cliff. He half inadvertently, that he always picked his way about a jagged promontory, and fetched up at last at the edge of a dark crevice scarcely 50 feet from the edge of the snow.

The crevice was not much over five feet wide at this point, and looking along, he saw that a hundred yards to his right it ended in a snowbank. But there was no need of following it down. He could leap it at a standing jump, with a running start he could bound ten feet beyond.

He was tired, eager to get to camp—and this was the zero hour. He drew back three paces, preparatory to making the leap.

All the wilderness world seemed to be straining—listening. The man leaped forward.

At that instant the North gave him some sign of its power. His first running step was firm, but at the second his moccasin failed to hold, slipping straight back. He pitched forward on his hands and knees, grasping at the hard, slippery ice.

He slid rather slowly, with that sickening helplessness that so often characterizes the events of a tragic dream; and the wilderness seemed still to be waiting, watching, in utterable indifference. Then he pitched forward into the crevice.

He was not to die at once. There was still hope of life. He fetched up, as if by a miracle, on the icy shelf ten feet below the mouth of the crevice—with sheer walls rising on each side.

Ned knew what fear was, well enough, as he lay in the darkened chasm, staring up at the white line of the crevice above him.

The shelf on which he had fallen was scarcely wider than his body, and only because it projected at an upward incline from the sheer wall had he come to rest upon it. It was perhaps 50 feet long, practically on a level all the way. The wall was sheer for ten feet above him; beyond the shelf was only the impenetrable darkness of the crevice, extending apparently into the bowels of the earth.

Very cautiously, in imminent danger of pitching backward into the abyss, he climbed to his feet. He was a tall man, but his hands reaching up, did not come within two feet of the ledge. And there was nothing whatever for his hands to cling to.

If there were irregularities in the ice. With a surge of hope he thought of his axe.

This tool, however, had either fallen into the crevice or had dropped from his shoulder and lay on the ice above. But there remained his clasp knife. He drew it carefully from his pocket.

Already he felt the icy chill of the glacier stealing through him, the cold fingers of death itself. He began to cut, two feet above the ledge, a sharp-edged hole in the ice.

He finished the cut at last, then started on another foot above. He hewed out a foothold with great care.

He did not forget that the hand-holds, to which his fingers must cling were yet to be made. They had to be finished with even greater skill than the footholds. Very wisely, he turned to them next.

He made the first of them as high as he could reach. Then he put one in about a foot below. Three more footholds were put in at about 12-inch intervals between.

Placing the knife between his teeth, he put his moccasin into the first foothold and pulled himself up. It did not take long, however, to convince him that the remaining work bordered practically on the impossible. These holes in the ice were not like irregularities in stone. The fingers slipped over them, it was almost impossible to cling on with both hands much less one. But clinging with all his might, he tried to free his right hand to procure his knife.

He made it at last, and at a frightful cost of nervous energy succeeded in cutting some sort of a gash in the ice wall above his head. Standing so close he could not look up, it was impossible to do more than back out a ragged hole. And because life lay this way and no other, he put the blade one more between his teeth, reached his right hand into the hole and tried to pull himself up again.

But disaster, bitter and complete, befell that attempt. His numbing hands failed to hold under the strain, and he slipped all the way back to his shelf. Something rang sharply against the ice wall, far below him.

LETTER FROM SYDNEY CAR-TON TO JOHN ALDEN
PRESCOTT

Of all dod-gasted fools, John Prescott, you are the dod-gastedest.

In the first place it seems to me that anybody, with a wife and baby on his hands and a rattling good income and prospects of steady improvement in it, who would start to gamble in stocks has lost his mind.

In the second place, if by any possibility a man should be such a fool as to gamble in stocks he would not be so silly as to trust Harry Ellington to be his broker. Why, don't you know that man has just escaped the law two or three times? He is due for another smashup very soon.

I'm ashamed of you, Jack, and I'm terribly angry with you. Perhaps more so because it is impossible at the present time for me to help you. If you had written me four days sooner I might have given you the two thousand dollars I have just put into a couple of lots which I think are going to raise in value in the next six months.

I don't understand you, Jack. I wasn't like you to say you were doing this because you were anxious to give Leslie and the boy some thing better than they had. Why hide behind Leslie? Has she complained? I don't think she has. From what I know of her it seems

God understood that unless the women were misled in regard to our general goodness, the race would soon die out. I hate to add to your troubles, but a friend of mine has just come from Los Angeles and tells me Paula Perrier is earning five hundred dollars a week and probably will be earning a thousand within the next six months. He tells me she is entirely alone out there. If that child on your doorstep belonged to her as we suspect and if she cares as much for it as she seemed to when I saw her in New York, you can make up your mind that she will try to get it back. There, I think I've said enough. Goodbye. SYD

Breakfast No. 1

The finest cereal dainty ever served

No breakfast dainty can compare with steam exploded rice. In texture, flavor and ease of digestion it holds the supreme place. Grains pulsed to airy morsels, 8 times normal size. Food cells broken so digestion is made easy. A nut-like flavor due to fearful heat.

The greatest night dish is Quaker Puffed Wheat in milk. That is whole wheat steam exploded. The wheat supplies 12 minerals growing children must have. Also their need of bran. Milk is rich in all three vitamins. Make whole wheat and whole milk tempting in this delightful way. Then people will revel in these matchless foods. Millions of people are better fed since Professor A. B. Anderson invented Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice. Let no day pass without them.

COOLIDGE HAS BIG HURDLE TO CLEAR

Nomination Declared Dependent on Handling of Congress.

MAY HAVE PLAIN SAILING

Probable Lineup of G. O. P. Candidates Given.

WASHINGTON —(United Press) — President Coolidge has only one big hurdle to clear to have plain sailing towards the Republican nomination in 1924. That hurdle is Congress.

If Mr. Coolidge can "get by" with the administration's program when the 68th congress meets in December, he will have proved himself to the satisfaction of his own party and will have such a claim on the nomination that it will be extremely doubtful that any other Republican aspirant can wrest it from him.

This is the outstanding fact in consideration of the chances of the group of Republicans who would like to be chosen.

The next congress can be controlled by the progressive-liberal group of which LaFollette is titular head. Whether it will be so swayed depends greatly on Republican leadership. The quality of that may depend on Mr. Coolidge. He has indicated he does not desire to interfere with congress. If he wants his administration to come thru the critical period just ahead of it, he will have to interfere, all competent observers here agree. His standing before the next Republican convention will depend largely on how effectively he does interfere to get things done or prevent other things being done.

Naturally the fruition of the hopes of other Republican aspirants depends on what happens to Mr. Coolidge between now and next summer. At present, their embryo candidacies shape up thus:

BIRNEY JOHNSON
The California Clydes is sulking in his tent, a little, feeling sore at circumstances, but preparing to fight savagely what he believes is an attempt by the Hoover forces to control the California delegation to the Republican convention. Johnson and his henchmen are organizing California from end to end for a grand Johnson "comeback" designed to restore some recently lost prestige. Johnson intends to go up to the Republican convention as California's favorite son and Coolidge has the nomination locked

Spent Hundreds for Medicines But Nothing Helped Until They Got Plant Juice

TROUBLE IS NOW RELIEVED

The medicinal plant juices in this verbal medicine, Plant Juice, seem to have a surprising effect upon the stomach. Many people who have suffered from stomach trouble for several years have taken Plant Juice and declared afterward that this remedy gave them relief where stores of other medicines had failed to help. Sufferers state that in cases of gas, fermentation of food, bloating, biliousness, stomach pain and many other ailments, the like, Plant Juice seems to act like magic.

"We spent hundreds of dollars on various medicines and treatments trying to get relief for my wife, Mrs. Virginia Tong, who was in miserable health because of stomach trouble," said Mr. George O. Tong, of 820 S. Twenty-first-st., Louisville, Ky., during a recent conversation with The Plant Juice Man.

"Nothing helped my wife," Mr. Tong continued. "Her stomach was just about played out. Any kind of food would cause her to have a bad attack of gas in her stomach. She used soda to relieve her for a while but finally it got so she could not even keep the soda on her stomach but would throw it up. She was always constipated and her nerves were so jerky that she could hardly keep still."

"A friend of mine recommended Plant Juice and my wife decided to try it. She began to improve on the first bottle of Plant Juice, and since then several bottles, she has a good appetite, food agrees with her and her complexion has cleared. We highly recommend Plant Juice and feel that it deserves all the recommendation we can give it."

away before then, Johnson will put up a snappy fight to get it. Failing at first place on the ticket he will try to dictate the vice presidential nominees.

HERBERT HOOVER:
Johnson says Hoover is a candidate for the presidency. There is no other evidence of that Hoover is not conducting a campaign for delegates unless it be in California, as against Johnson.

GIFFORD PINCHOT
Pinchot is a lot more likely to be the vice-presidential nominee than he is to head the ticket. He will control part of the Pennsylvania delegation and Coolidge will have the remainder. The situation there is well suited to a combination throwing the whole strength of Pennsylvania to Coolidge for president and to Pinchot for vice-president—a sort of reciprocal compliment.

FRANK O. LOWDEN
Lowden's friends say he was "lucked out" of the 1920 nomination and that if there is an open field he will come back strong in 1924. Preparations are being made to put him over as a compromise between extreme conservatism and too generous progressivism, if a free-for-all fight develops.

ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE
Here is the man who may unhorse Coolidge, champion of the regular wing of the party. LaFollette, as leader of the progressive group in congress that holds the balance of power, as spokesman for the unrest in the country, has Mr. Coolidge's fate and possibly the Republican nomination in his hands. The party won't take LaFollette as its nominee, unless he beats its

BOY, 11, IS FRESHMAN AT SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — Moses Finkelshtein, 11, matriculated into full standing as a freshman at Syracuse University. He lives in this city and was graduated from a local high school last June as valedictorian of his class.

Writing his impressions for the Syracuse Post-Standard, the boy told of his selection of studies.

"First, I considered English as a necessary subject, no matter what I intend to take up in future years, for without a good knowledge of English it is rather hard to get along in the world," Moses wrote.

"Next I picked out mathematics, because a good knowledge of that branch of study tends to produce accuracy. Then I decided that foreign languages, science, philosophy and history were the other courses that I ought to take this year in order to fit myself for the more mature subjects to be studied in my junior and senior years at the university."

After all nothing satisfies like a good cigar.

PARMENTER-REID WEDDING VERY ELABORATE

Seldom have Lima society folk been asked to a wedding more elaborate in detail and exquisite in appointments than that of Miss Mary Eunice Parmenter, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Parmenter to Leslie Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Reid, which was solemnized at the First Baptist church, Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Rev. Franklin Stiles of Middletown, former pastor of the First Baptist church and Rev. Warren L. Steeves were the officiating ministers.

The church was beautiful in its decorations of southern smilax, while the altar was banked with palms and huge baskets of white lilies, white roses and white chrysanthemums. Pompom bows of white satin ribbon were at the entrance of the pews reserved for members of the two families and close friends.

Preceding the ceremony, a splendid musical service was given by Miss Violet Bradley, organist, and R. Harley Holmes, violinist. Miss Bradley and Mr. Holmes played "The Swan" by Faint-Faens, "Reigen feller Gister" from the opera "Orpheus" by Gruck, "Adagio" by Von Schubert and "My Heart of Thy Sweet Voice" by Faint-Faens. At 6:30 o'clock, Mrs. Harry L. Gayer, of Cincinnati, whose voice always pleases, sang "Nocturne" by Poul Curran and "The Sacrament" by McDermitt.

At the appearance of the bride party from the south entrance of the church, the organ and violin began the strains of "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin. Coming first were the brides, Alexander MacDonell, William and Ralph Reid of Schenectady, N. Y., and Warren Parmenter of Shidler, Okla. Following them were the four bridesmaids, Miss Janet White, Miss Florence Price, Miss Elizabeth Reid and Miss Magdalena Stolzenbach. Each looked very charming in her colonial style gown of robin egg blue satin with trimmings of coral georgette and ceru lace. They wore bandeaus of coral and blue satin roses, gifts from the bride, and carried large old-fashioned bouquets in the paper holders.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Warren Parmenter of Shidler, Okla., came next wearing a gown of coral georgette with medallions of ceru lace and a blue satin bow at the side. Her flowers were an old-fashioned bouquet, in keeping with her colonial costume. Preceding the bride were the lovely little flower girls, Virginia Galvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Galvin, and Catherine Kneely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Kneely. Little Miss Galvin wore a dress of white net over satin trimmed in ribbons and dainty Miss Kneely wore a dress of Princess lace over pink satin with trimmings of French rosebuds. Their flowers were old-fashioned bouquets.

The bride, proceeding to the altar on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, made a beautiful picture long to be remembered by those present. In her wedding gown of white lace embroidered in silver, over white satin. She wore a bandeau of orange blossoms, with white net ruffles on the sides, and to which was fastened her lovely wedding veil. Her shoes were white kid trimmed with silver lace and buckles. The bride's flowers were an artistic shower bouquet of Angelus roses, lilies of the valley and admantium and streamers of deep-fringed white satin ribbons. The bride and her attendants were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, John Reid, of Montreal.

Immediately following the ceremony, the reception and dinner was held at the Shawnee Country club. The guests were received in the private dining room of the club while the large living room had been converted into a wonderful banquet room with tables of exquisite decorations. The bride sat at a table which ran the entire length of the room, in the center of which was an artistically lighted fountain. At tables, which were on either side of the fountain and which ran in the opposite direction of the bride table, covers were laid for members of the two families and their close friends. Smaller tables were arranged around the large ones. Huge platter baskets of pink chrysanthemums combined with pink roses and asters and surrounded by lighted pink candles tied with pink ribbons and greenery were used on the tables. The place cards and attractive nut baskets were of pink. At the club, as at the church, the smilax formed the background for the other decorations. The fire place in the living room was a mass of palms and ferns with Easter lilies.

Through the dinner, an orchestra led by R. Harley Holmes played a program of excellent numbers and following the dinner the same orchestra played for the dancing. Leading lustre to the whole picture were the many beautiful gowns worn by the women. Mrs. Parmenter, mother of the bride, wore a gown of old gold lace trimmed in fur. Her corsage was of red roses and valley lilies. Mrs. Reid, the groom's mother, wore a French gown of black, beaded in colored bands. Her corsage was of roses and valley lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid left later in the evening for an eastern trip. They traveled in a big colored sport suit with subtle trimmings. Her blouse was of tan and her hat of brown velvet.

The bride, after finishing here in school, was graduated from Wellesley, followed by post graduate work at Columbus university.

She has many friends in the city who regret that her marriage will take her elsewhere. Mr. Reid, a graduate of Cornell university, is an attorney and has been affiliated with the firm of Palmer and Seales in New York City for several years. During his visits here with his parents, he has made a host of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid will be at home after October the first in their new home in Westfield, N. J.

Man 74 Years Old Is "Rejuvenated" In 3 Weeks Without Gland Operation

Kansas Contractor Tells of Wonderful Results Obtained in Test of New Scientific Discovery

Thomas J. Glascock, 74, well-known Kansas contractor, declares he has virtually been made young again by the recently discovered korex compound, which is pronounced superior to "gland treatments" as an invigorator and revitalizer.

"I feel like I did at 35," says Mr. Glascock, "and seem to be getting stronger every day. During my three weeks' use of the new discovery, pains and weaknesses of many years' standing disappeared almost magically. Today I am as vigorous and supple as I was in the prime of life. Furthermore, when I began using the compound, my memory was virtually gone and I was almost blind. Now my mind is clear and active and I can read the finest print without difficulty."

In order to find out whether the results were lasting, Mr. Glascock waited six months before reporting on his test of the discovery. On this point he says:

"Every passing day strengthens my conviction that my restoration is not only complete but permanent. I can't express the happiness this great discovery has brought to me. It has made me 'young' again."

Similar reports are being made almost daily. For instance, D. W. Wood of New Orleans, past 60 years of age, says: "The compound has brought me back to as good, healthy physical condition as I enjoyed at 35. I am apparently as supple as at 25 and my eyesight is better than for years. I would not take $5,000 for what the discovery has done for me."

The compound is a simple home treatment in tablet form, absolutely harmless, yet rated as the quickest and most powerful invigorator known. Acting directly on lower spinal nerve centers and certain glands and blood vessels, it often brings amazing benefits in 24 to 36 hours, according to thousands who have tested it.

"It is wonderful," writes a resident of Hollister, Cal., "in less than 24 hours you can feel it do the work. It makes one feel young as a young man. I am more than happy and glad I tried it." Another Californian says: "The compound is a world's wonder. I feel like I was about 25 and here I am nearly fifty!"

The compound has been tested in

Intense Training Marks Grid Work Of Many Squads As Season Draws Near

As A Matter of Fact

By HARRY BRADBURY
Sports Editor

Planting from the manner in which the Giants have been pounding out victories on their last western trip, it seems almost certain that they will finish first in the National League race. So far as the Yanks are concerned, it is a certainty, so the millions of fans are already beginning to speculate on the coming series which will open either on October 9 or 10.

If you bank on paper it would influence you toward the Yanks, for in all the points of the game, with the exception of batting, they have a comfortable margin on the tribe of McGraw. But it is well to keep in mind that this was true last season, with the exception of one game, when the Giants won 10-0. It was a fluke, and it is not likely to be repeated.

If we turn to the batting averages, the Yanks are in a much better position than the Giants. The Yanks have a batting average of .285, while the Giants are at .275. This is a difference of .010, which is not much, but it is a difference.

But just what is the difference between the National and American League? No one can tell, but it is a fact that for years, the batting averages of the American League have been higher than those of the National League. This is a fact that has been true since the American League was started in 1900. But this does not necessarily follow that the batting of the younger organization is better than that of the older one.

If the batting averages of the Giants are compared with the Yanks, then the Giants should win for at this time they have a .282 batting average, while the Yanks have a .285. This is a difference of .003, which is not much, but it is a difference.

Next to this is the pitching. The Giants have a pitching average of .275, while the Yanks have a .270. This is a difference of .005, which is not much, but it is a difference.

Then there is the fielding. The Giants have a fielding average of .975, while the Yanks have a .970. This is a difference of .005, which is not much, but it is a difference.

Then there is the base running. The Giants have a base running average of .275, while the Yanks have a .270. This is a difference of .005, which is not much, but it is a difference.

Then there is the error rate. The Giants have an error rate of .025, while the Yanks have an error rate of .030. This is a difference of .005, which is not much, but it is a difference.

Then there is the stolen base rate. The Giants have a stolen base rate of .025, while the Yanks have a stolen base rate of .030. This is a difference of .005, which is not much, but it is a difference.

Then there is the caught stealing rate. The Giants have a caught stealing rate of .025, while the Yanks have a caught stealing rate of .030. This is a difference of .005, which is not much, but it is a difference.

Then there is the hit by pitch rate. The Giants have a hit by pitch rate of .025, while the Yanks have a hit by pitch rate of .030. This is a difference of .005, which is not much, but it is a difference.

Then there is the sacrifice rate. The Giants have a sacrifice rate of .025, while the Yanks have a sacrifice rate of .030. This is a difference of .005, which is not much, but it is a difference.

Then there is the double play rate. The Giants have a double play rate of .025, while the Yanks have a double play rate of .030. This is a difference of .005, which is not much, but it is a difference.

Then there is the triple play rate. The Giants have a triple play rate of .025, while the Yanks have a triple play rate of .030. This is a difference of .005, which is not much, but it is a difference.

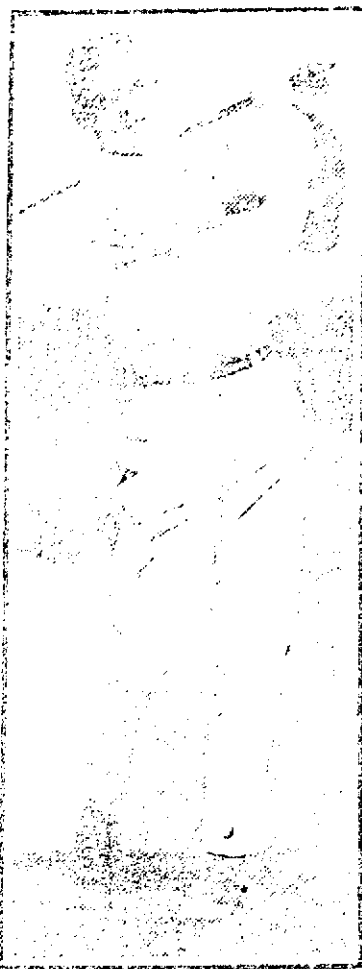

Then there is the grand slam rate. The Giants have a grand slam rate of .025, while the Yanks have a grand slam rate of .030. This is a difference of .005, which is not much, but it is a difference.

Then there is the home run rate. The Giants have a home run rate of .025, while the Yanks have a home run rate of .030. This is a difference of .005, which is not much, but it is a difference.

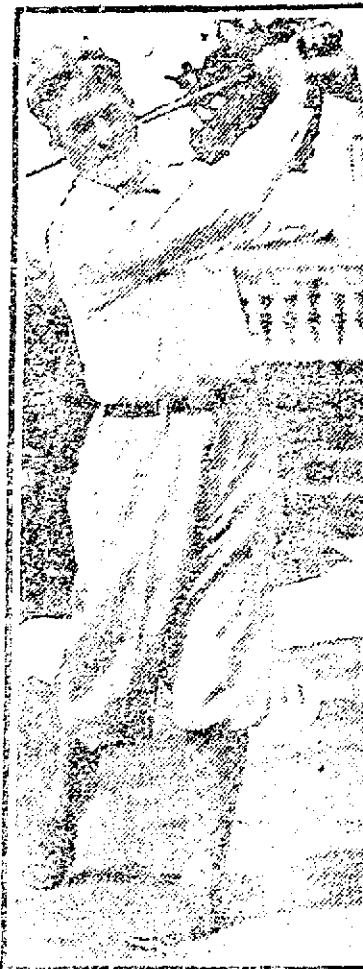

Then there is the RBI rate. The Giants have an RBI rate of .025, while the Yanks have an RBI rate of .030. This is a difference of .005, which is not much, but it is a difference.

Then there is the total runs rate. The Giants have a total runs rate of .025, while the Yanks have a total runs rate of .030. This is a difference of .005, which is not much, but it is a difference.

Bright Future For St. Rose Cagers

Hopes of producing one of the finest basketball teams that has ever represented a Lima high school were kindled at St. Rose this week when a survey of the possible candidates for the coming season's team was made and nearly 20 likely freshmen prospects responded.

While St. Rose lost four veterans of last year's squad, then graduation, it is believed that the 13 men of last year's first squad, and the large number of new prospects will offer a team's nucleus of a brilliant array of good material from which a real winning combination can be produced.

Elmer Wells, captain-elect of this year's squad, "Doble" MacNamara, Tommy Quinn, Dick Christen, of whom Dick Doyle, John O'Connor, George Sullivan, John Lane, Cyril Weaver, and a number of last year's squad are expected to be the nucleus of the team.

St. Rose's schedule for the coming year has not been completed owing to their inability to gain reinstatement into the Ohio High School Athletic Association. It is expected that the school will remain in the Ohio League and will begin the season next week.

The manager of St. Rose's new basketball team has been turned over to the St. Rose Alumni Association. The coach will probably be named next week.

YOM KIPPUR WILL BE OBSERVED

Holy Day Extends from Wednesday to Thursday Evenings

PLAN NO SERVICES HERE

Early History of Day Proves Very Interesting

Yom Kippur, Day of Atonement, regarded by all Jews as the holiest day in the calendar of the synagogues will be fittingly observed by Lima Jews Thursday. Deeply religious in its significance, the day will be one of forgiveness. Local Jews have no special program prepared for observance of the day, it was said Wednesday. The holiday starts at sundown Wednesday and continues until sundown Thursday.

Something of the significance of the day is told in the following press notice sent out from the Jewish press bureau:

In the Pentateuch the Day of Atonement is represented as a priestly ceremony wherein the high-priest of the Temple performed the important function of expiation for the sanctuary, the priesthood and, incidentally, the people. To the common people this day had no particular importance, beyond that attached to the Sabbath excepting the fact that they were to observe it as a fast day in order to obtain pardon for their sins.

There was in ancient times a primitive rite practiced in connection with Yom Kippur. Two goats were selected one of which was sent to Azazel, the demon of the desert, to bear away the sins of the people, while the other was offered as a sacrifice to the Lord. This rite was abandoned before the common era.

DAY OF COMMUNION
In its earlier setting Yom Kippur seems to have been a day of communion on the part of the high-priest with God. It was he who confessed his sins and those of the people and implored forgiveness. On this day it was believed that the high-priest actually beheld the Majesty of God. For it was on this day that he entered the Holy of Holies.

Against this background of priestly ceremonialism with its archaic forms of expiation the rabbis of the Synagog devised a Day of Atonement, that accorded with the message of the prophets. As a result of this new interpretation it was no longer possible for the high-priest to obtain forgiveness by sacrificial blood, incense or scapegoat. The only means by which the sinner obtained forgiveness was by repentance of his own accord and by his own resolution to return from the error of his ways and come again to God. As in the days of old the high-priest of the Temple confessed his sins with a contrite heart, so now every son of the covenant of Abraham is enjoined to enter his house of worship and spend the day in meditation and prayer.

On this Day of Atonement each individual learns to approach God in true humility, imploring His pardon for sin, promising to amend his ways and make himself worthier as man and citizen.

THREATS OF RAIN UNAFFECTS TEDDY

Even drizzling rain and threats of a real storm can't keep Ted indoors. Cloudy, dark days are the perfect weather for joy riding according to Ted for there is no danger of getting sunburned and with a little protection the rain menace is eliminated. So Ted decided to have his daily ride, regardless of weather conditions Wednesday. He hitched his trusty "steed" to his cart and started merrily on the way, not forgetting to protect himself by erecting his umbrella. His precaution was a wise one for unsettled weather is promised with rain Wednesday night and Thursday. No change in temperature is expected.

OSTEOPATHY IN INDIA

Native Doctors Use Skill in Curing Patients

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. — (United Press)—The natives of India practice osteopathy, although they probably never heard of the science as developed and taught in the United States, according to D. D. Daily, student at the Andrew T. Still College of Osteopathy and Surgery here, who has just returned from a trip around the world.

He daily witnessed natives of Calcutta on the beach of the Hooghly River, a tributary of the sacred Ganges, in what at first appeared to be "wrestling matches," which were explained to be treatments for disease and in which, Daily said, he recognized some of the technique studied here.

"There were perhaps a dozen of the doctors, seated in a row," he said. "They were stripped to the waist—strong, handsome brown fellows. One was giving a treatment. He poured a container of some sort of oil over the patient, who was as lacking in raiment as himself. Then he began the manipulations. He had many which I have never seen used by physicians in this country. Many others, too, which I hope I shall never see used in this country. He went at it in 'Strangler Lewis' fashion at times. He set on his patient, he stood on his patient, he walked on his patient.

"The patient seemed well satisfied. The doctors had a good business. I was told that the practice was of long standing in India, and that the doctors were credited with some wonderful cures."

Street repair crews laid off because of stoppage of that work have been added to city construction gangs.

ENGINE HITS AUTO
DELPHOS — Jacob Marks, proprietor of a West Side grocery and meat market, escaped injuries Tuesday evening when his auto was struck at the Second-st crossing by a T. St. L. & W. switch engine. The machine was slightly damaged about the rear.

SCOUT VETERANS GET CHARTER

Impressive Ceremonies Add to Dignity of Occasion

Troop 4, Boy Scouts, was formally invested as a veteran troop at Christ Church, Episcopal, Tuesday evening, being the first troop in the city to receive the charter as a veteran organization. This means that the troop has been in continuous active scout work for five years.

President J. E. Simonton of the scout council, presided and Scout Executive John A. Fletcher of Findlay acted as council leader for ceremonies. Members of the troop committee renewed their allegiance. This committee consists of Rev. Victor A. Smith, rector of Christ church; City Manager C. A. Bingham, L. A. Larsen and Earl Marmon.

Ceremonies started at 7:30 p. m. Owing to a last minute failure to get the projecting machine, pictures of scout activities could not be shown. The charter which the boys received is the regular charter but with a large V thru the center of the document. Eighteen boys were registered in the troop. This does not mean, President Simonton said, that all of them are veteran scouts but they are members of a veteran troop.

Emphasis was laid Wednesday by President Simonton on the Father and Son banquet which will be held Friday evening at the Elks Club being the first annual affair of this kind to be staged by local scouts. About 100 reservations have already been made for the banquet, he said. All reservations must be in by Thursday morning, Simonton said, and he urges that every man who has a son in scout work make sure that he has his reservation for the big banquet.

LABORER OF ADA FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

OTTAWA — Petition in bankruptcy was filed by Attorney Albert Straman for Edward Chochard, 46, laborer, residing on Rural Route No. 3, Ada, on Wednesday in United States court at Toledo.

Liabilities of Chochard are listed at $1,347 and assets are placed at $720. Assets consist of one-half interest in a motor boat, anchored in St. Mary's lake, a tractor plow, valued at $15, a buzz saw, and cow and calf and tractor, the latter of which is valued at $400.

An execution against the goods listed in the assets has been obtained by the Columbus Grove Brick & Tile company and sale is set for September 26.

Chochard, who is a married man, took $500 worth of the goods as a home-stead.

ARREST IS ORDERED
DELPHOS — Police have been instructed to arrest Albert Robinson, Van Wert, who failed to appear for arraignment after his arrest Sunday on a drunkenness charge. He left $900, which police think he may regard the same as a forfeiture of bond.

HUSBAND SAYS VISIONS OF HAPPY MARRIAGE SHATTERED

Visions of a happy marriage entertained in 1917, when he married were shattered for W. L. Hanson, when he espied Helen, his mate, walking and talking with other men, according to assertion contained in a divorce petition filed Wednesday. Beside going about with other men, Hanson accuses his bride of failing to perform her household duties.

DELPHOS MAY GET JUNIOR K. OF C.

"Columbian Squires," Name of Catholic Order

DELPHOS — Organization of a junior order of the Knights of Columbus, to be known as "Columbian Squires," may be started soon in Delphos. Recommendation made at the recent national convention in Montreal was read Tuesday night at a meeting of the local lodge.

Titles, order will include Catholic youths between the ages of 14 and 18, and will be subject to supervision of the parent organization. Other data on the project will be secured before formation of the order is started. Sylvestre G. Grothouse was elected grand knight for the ensuing year at the meeting. Other officers are: Joseph H. Beckman, deputy grand knight; Ed Heban, financial secretary; A. J. Laudick, recording secretary; Raymond McKown, treasurer; A. C. Weger, warden; Hubert Wulffhorst, advocate; Henry Hauenhorst, trustee; Henry Fisher and Arthur Hauenhorst, inner guards; John Lehmkuhle and William Elchenhorst, outer guards.

Installation by the district deputy, E. L. Zeuman, will be held October 2.

The entertainment committee was instructed to select some suitable date to hold a card party and dance. Some suitable evening early in October will be chosen.

PUTNAM-CO FAIR IS OPENED

Ottawa Makes Plans to Receive Large Crowds

OTTAWA — With clearing skies Wednesday every indication was to the effect the Putnam-co Fair would be well attended Wednesday, the opening day for patrons.

Judging was begun Wednesday and by Thursday noon it is expected winners in all departments will be known. Judging of the penmanship in the lower grades in the individual exhibits has been completed. Judging of most of the educational work will be completed by Wednesday night. City officials are making a special effort this week to keep the usual host of light-fingered centry which follows fairs out of Ottawa. Sharp lookout will be kept for all such offenders and arrests made. Mayor W. A. Reuter is urging all persons to take no chance this week on leaving open their residences or a loop-hole whereby entrance might be gained by thieves and robbers. Marshal B. M. Cabill has outlined traffic regulations and the streets have been marked with a special effort to making parking easy during this week.

PUTNAM-CO GRAND JURY RETURNS 8 INDICTMENTS

OTTAWA — Eleven cases were investigated by the Putnam-co grand jury, which returned indictments against Charles Shank for first degree murder. The grand jury returned eight secret indictments. Twenty-seven witnesses were called, said to be a record number in Putnam-co. The grand jury adjourned for four days in its deliberations.

"Isle of Retribution"

By Edison Marshall

Ned Corbett, who is engaged to marry Lenore Hardensworth, is shipwrecked with her and they take refuge on an island. With them is Bess Gilbert, a seamstress. The island is occupied by a brute named Doomsdorf and his human wife.

The master of the island takes Ned and the girls prisoners and bids them build a cabin for themselves. He gives them an old stove, Lenore is allowed to remain with the squaw and help with the housework, but Bess and Ned are made to labor until they both fall unconscious.

When the cabin is completed, Doomsdorf announces that he means to have his slaves do his winter trapping for him. Bess and Ned are started on different routes. Ned has a fight with a bear.

Ned did not wait to catch the full force of that blow. His powerful thighs, made iron hard in these last bitter weeks, drove him out and up in an offensive assault. His long body seemed to meet that of the wolf full in the air. Then they rolled together into the drifts.

The wolf wiggled free, sending home one vicious bite into the flesh just under the arm; and for a breath both contestants seemed to be playing some weird, pinwheel game in the snow. The silence of the everlasting wild was torn to shreds by the noise of battle—the frantic snarling of the wolf, the wild shouts of this madman who had just found his strength.

Then for a moment both contestants seemed to lie motionless in the snow. The wolf lay like a great hound before the fireside—fore legs stretched in front, body at full length. Ned lay at one side, the animal's body between his knees, one arm around his neck, the other thrusting back his great head. The whole issue of life or death, victory or defeat, was suddenly immensely simplified. It depended solely on whether or not Ned had the physical might to push back the shaggy head and shatter the vertebrae.

Time stood still. A thousand half-crazed fancies flew thru Ned's mind. His life blood seemed to be starting from his pores, and his heart was tearing itself to shreds in his breast. But the wolf was quivering now. Its eyes were full of strange, unworshipful fire. And then Ned gave a last, terrific wrench.

A bone broke with a distinct crack in the utter silence. And as he fell forward, spent, the great white form flaked down and went limp in his arms.

XXIII
In a little while Ned stripped the pelt from the warm body of the wolf and continued down his line of traps. He was able to think more coherently now and consider methods and details. And by the same token of clear thought, he was brought face to face with the fact of the almost insuperable obstacles in his path.

Plans for freedom first of all seemed to have to include Doomsdorf's capture.

XXIV
Ned knew what fear was, well enough, as he lay in the darkened chasm, staring up at the white line of the crevices above him.

He was not to die at once. There was still hope of life. He fetched up, as if by a miracle, on the icy shelf ten feet below the mouth of the crevice—with sheer walls rising on each side.

HIS LONG BODY SEEMED TO MEET THAT OF THE WOLF FULL IN THE AIR.

death. That was the first essential, and the last. Could they succeed in striking the life from their master, they could wait in the cabin until the trader fatigued should touch their island in the spring.

The difficulty lay in finding an opening of attack. Doomsdorf's rifle was never loaded except when it was in his arms, and he wore his pistol in his belt, day and night. For all his hopelessness, Ned had noticed, half inadvertently, that he always took precautions against a night attack. The squaw slept on the outside of their cot and would be as difficult to pass without arousing as a sleeping dog. The cabin itself was bolted, not to be entered without waking both occupants; and the three prisoners of course slept in the newer cabin.

Ned was working that part of the line from his Twelve-Mile cabin over the ridge toward the Forks cabin—his old rendezvous with Bess. He was somewhat late in crossing the range today. The blazed trail took him around the shoulder of the ridge, clear to the edge of a little, deeply scamed glacier such as crowns so many of the larger hills in the far North.

Few were the wild creatures that traversed this icy desolation, so his trap line had been laid out around the glacier, following the blazed trail in the scrub timber. But today the long way round was particularly previous to his spirit. More than a mile could be saved by leaving the timber and climbing across the ice, and only a few sets, none of which had ever proved especially productive, would be missed.

Without an instant's hesitation he turned from the trail straight over the snowy summit toward the cabin. The cut-off would save him the annoyance of making camp after dark. And since he had climbed it once before, he scarcely felt the need of extra caution.

The crossing, however, was not quite the same as on the previous occasion. Before the ice had been covered, completely across, with a heavy snowfall, no harder to walk on than the open barrens. He soon found now that the snow prevailed only to the summit of the glacier, and the descent beyond the summit had been swept clean by the winds.

Below him stretched a half-mile of glare ice, ivory white like the fangs of some fabulous beast of prey. Here and there it was gashed with crevices—those deep glacier chasms in which a stone falls in silence. For a moment Ned regarded it with considerable displeasure.

He decided to take a chance. He removed his snowshoes and ventured carefully out upon the ice. It was easier than it looked. His snowshoes clung very well. Steadily gaining confidence, he walked at a faster pace. The slope was not much on this side, the glacier ending in an abrupt cliff many hundred feet in height, so he felt little need of especial precaution. It was, in fact, the easiest walking that he had since his arrival upon the island, so he decided not to turn off clear until he reached the high ground just to one side of the ice cliff. He half inadvertently, that he always pleased his way about a jagged promontory, and fetched up at last at the edge of a dark crevice scarcely 50 feet from the edge of the snow.

The crevice was not much over five feet wide at this point, and looking along, he saw that a hundred yards to his right it ended in a snowbank. But there was no need of following it down. He could leap it at a standing jump; with a running start he could bound ten feet beyond.

All the wilderness world seemed to be straining—listening. The man leaped forward.

At that instant the North gave him some sign of its power. His first running step was firm, but at the second his foot slipped. He pitched forward on his hands and knees, grasping at the hard, slippery ice.

He slid rather slowly, with that sickening helplessness that so often characterizes the events of a tragic dream; and the wilderness seemed still to be waiting, watching, in unalterable indifference. Then he pitched forward into the crevice.

He was not to die at once. There was still hope of life. He fetched up, as if by a miracle, on the icy shelf ten feet below the mouth of the crevice—with sheer walls rising on each side.

Ned knew what fear was, well enough, as he lay in the darkened chasm, staring up at the white line of the crevices above him.

The shelf on which he had fallen was scarcely wider than his body, and only because it projected at an upward incline from the sheer wall had he come to rest upon it. It was perhaps 50 feet long, practically on a level all the way. The wall was sheer for ten feet above him; beyond the shelf was only the impenetrable darkness of the crevice, extending apparently into the bowels of the earth.

Very cautiously, in imminent danger of pitching backward into the abyss, he climbed to his feet. He was a tall man, but his hands reaching up, did not come within two feet of the ledge. And there was nothing whatever for his hands to cling to.

If there were irregularities in the ice. With a surge of hope he thought of his axe.

This tool, however, had either fallen into the crevice or had dropped from his shoulder and lay on the ice above. But there remained his clasp knife. He drew it carefully from his pocket. Already he felt the icy chill of the glacier stealing through him, the cold fingers of death itself. He began to cut, two feet above the ledge, a sharp-edged hole in the ice.

He finished the cut at last, then started on another a foot above. He hewed out a foothold with great care.

He did not forget that the handholds, to which his fingers must cling were yet to be made. They had to be finished with even greater skill than the footholds. Very wisely, he turned to them next.

He made the first of them as high as he could reach. Then he put one in about a foot below. Three more footholds were put in at about 12-inch intervals between.

Placing the knife between his teeth, he put his foot on the first foothold and pulled himself up. It did not take long, however, to convince him that the remaining work bordered practically on the impossible. These holes in the ice were not like irregularities in stone. The fingers slipped over them; it was almost impossible to cling on with both hands, much less one. But clinging with all his might, he tried to free his right hand to procure his knife.

He made it at last, and at a frightful cost of nervous energy succeeded in cutting some sort of a gash in the icy wall above his head. Standing so close he could not look up, it was impossible to do more than hack out a ragged hole. And because life lay this way and no other, he put the blade one more between his teeth, reached his right hand into the hole, and tried to pull himself up again.

But disaster, bitter and complete, followed that attempt. His numbing hands failed to hold under the strain, and he slipped all the way back to his shelf. Something rang sharply against the ice wall, far below him.

LETTER FROM SYDNEY CAR-TON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

Of all dod-gasted fools, John Prescott, you are the dod-gastedest. In the first place it seems to me that anybody, with a wife and baby on his hands and a rattling good income and prospects of steady improvement in it, who would start to gamble in stocks has lost his mind.

In the second place, if by any possibility a man should be such a fool as to gamble in stocks he would not be so silly as to trust Harry Ellington to be his broker. Why, don't you know that man has just escaped the law two or three times? He is due for another smashup very soon.

I'm ashamed of you, Jack, and I'm terribly angry with you. Perhaps more so because it is impossible at the present time for me to help you. If you had written me four days sooner I might have given you the two thousand dollars I have just put into a couple of lots which I think are going to raise in value in the next six months.

I don't understand you, Jack. It wasn't like you to say you were doing this because you were anxious to give Leslie and the boy something better than they had. Why hide behind Leslie? Has she complained? I don't think she has. From what I know of her it seems to me she has been a pretty good little soldier. She has stood the gaff and carried on much better than you, if anyone should ask me.

Whenever I see one of you chaps make such a damn fool of himself as you have been doing, I'm mighty glad I've never married. I would not like to make any girl as unhappy as I am sure you are going to make Leslie before you get thru with it.

I never yet have been able to answer the conundrum of why a woman who seems so sane on other matters, should fall for a man—even as good a man as you think you are (God help you!). Perhaps it was because the good

God understood that unless the women were misled in regard to our general cussedness, the race would soon die out.

I hate to add to your troubles, but a friend of mine has just come from Los Angeles and tells me Paula Perrier is earning five hundred dollars a week and probably will be earning a thousand within the next six months. He tells me she is entirely alone out there.

If that child on your doorstep belonged to her as we suspect and if she cares as much for it as she seemed to when I saw her in New York, you can make up your mind that she will try to get it back.

There, I think I've said enough. Goodbye. SYD.

Breakfast No. 1

The finest cereal dainty ever served

No breakfast dainty can compare with steam exploded rice. In texture, flavor and ease of digestion it holds the supreme place.

Grains puffed to airy morsels, 8 times normal size. Food cells broken so digestion is made easy. A nut-like flavor due to fearful heat.

The greatest night dish is Quaker Puffed Wheat in milk. That is whole wheat steam exploded. The wheat supplies 12 minerals growing children must have. Also their need of bran. Milk is rich in all three vitamins.

Make whole wheat and whole milk tempting in this delightful way. Then people will revel in these matchless foods.

Millions of people are better fed since Professor A. P. Anderson invented Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice. Let no day pass without them.

REDS TIGHTEN HOLD ON SECOND PLACE-WIN TWO GAMES

Intense Training Marks Grid Work Of Many Squads As Season Draws Near

Sports Editor

Figuring from the manner in which the Giants have been pounding out victories on their last western trip, it seems almost certain that they will finish first in the National league race. So far as the Yanks are concerned it's a certainty, so the millions of fans are already beginning to speculate on the coming series which will open either on October 9 or 10.

If you bank on dope, it would influence you toward the Yanks, for in all the points of the game, with the exception of batting, they have a comfortable margin on the tribe of McGraw. But it is well to bear in mind, that this was true last

Giants Idle While Reds Win Two

The weatherman is having about as much to say, so far as deciding standings, as the umpire has making decisions. The Giants were idle, Wednesday, because of rain, while Cincinnati tightened its hold on second place, by defeating Philadelphia two games, and Pittsburgh leading a kindly hand, by letting Boston get the best of the argument by a 5-4 score. Philadelphia has been playing brilliantly in spots, especially in the latter part of the season, and the first game Wednesday, between Rixey and The Virginian, by the name of Betts, goes down as one of the tightest pitching duels, by any team at any time this season. Each allowed but five safe bingles, and the Reds managed to score on an easy fumble by Metz, a recruit, who is being tried out by Manager Fletcher. Wabbling in crucial parts of a ball game is sometimes very costly; in this instance it cost the Phillies the game.

In the second game there was more hitting, and in this respect Donohue, who was on the mound for the Reds, helped considerably toward winning his own game. In the third inning the Phillies got three men over, and it did look as if the Cincinnati would come out at the little end of the horn, but with desperation in the fourth all resulted as the Reds would have it. They batted out enough runs to win. With one out Hargrave singled to left; Pinelli grounded to Wrightstone, who thru wide to first, pulled Tierney off the bag. Fowler singled to left, filling the bases. This was the time and place for Donohue to do something besides pitch; he did; he whaled the ball for three bases to right-center field. This cleared the bases with the exception of the pitcher, at third. Burns walked. Brodner forced Burns at second and Donohue scored on the play. The first baseman would have been out, but dropped Walker's good throw. Hough hit Behan for asingle and Bressler scored. Cincy scored another in the eighth and that was enough.

YANKS ARE IDLE
The Yanks were idle Wednesday, without interfering very much with the standing in the American league race. The Indians also had a day of rest. The outstanding feature of the American league was Ebner's twentieth victory for the season in the box for Boston against Chicago White Sox. This pitcher is proving himself to be one of the star aces of the American league.

Figuring the heaviest hitters of the Yanks with Ruth .388, Witt, .316, Meusel .304, Smith .298, Hornsby .295, Ward .298, McNally .286, Dugan .273 and it gives a combined batting force of .307. Just one point behind the Giants. The Giants have five .300 hitters and the Yanks four. So it is easy to see that so far as batting strength is concerned there is mighty little to choose from.

Ryan pitching for the Giants up to September 13, had pitched seven games and had won every one of them. Why he is not put on the mound more often, is, of course, only known to McGraw. But supposing in the first game, both teams put in their particular pitching ace, what are the advantages, counting each team practically even in batting strength? Just at this time Pennock seems to be the particular ace, for he had won ten games and lost but three. Good pitching. To oppose him, according to the dope McGraw should put in his most successful finger which would be Scott, who has pitched fourteen games and won 5 of them. His average is .443 and Pennock has a mark of .789. So if you figure on pitchers the Yanks should walk away with the game, for there is a difference of 46 points between the two pitchers.

It does seem certain that Huggins has a corps of fingers which the much stronger than the Giant hurlers. But in this respect, we are entirely at sea, because in a dozen instances during the season the Giants have gone in against the best pitchers of the National league and hammered them.

There is a good old railroad rule in the book of regulations which says that in case of doubt get on the safe side. This will hold good so far as wagering on the outcome of the world's series is concerned. The safe side, however, will be not to make any wagers.

Heavy Track Put Damper On Races

(Special to The News)
OTTAWA — The first day's races at the Putnam County Fair were devoid of any sensational features, the races being run on a heavy track, which had been wet by the downpour of rain on Tuesday. The card, however, was carried out as scheduled.

First money, $175, in the trotting race, went to Adaline M., a black mare, owned by Al Clark, of Lima. The best time was 2:27 1-4. The $200 purse was given to Al Bingen, gelding, owned by Ed Fogwell, of Marion, Ohio, in 2:11 pace. The time was 2:19 1-4.

Three races were carded for Thursday, two of which will be racing.

Summary of Wednesday races:

Bright Future For St. Rose Cagers

Hopes of producing one of the strongest basketball teams that has ever represented a Lima high school mounted at St. Rose this week when a survey of the possible candidates for the coming season's team was made and nearly 20 likely freshmen prospects responded.

While St. Rose lost four veterans of last year's squad thru graduation it is believed that the 13 men of last year's first squad and the large number of new prospects will offer St. Rose's unnamed coach a brilliant array of cage material from which a real winning combination can be produced.

Elmo Wells, captain-elect of this season's squad, "Pablo" MacNamara, Tommy Quinn, Dick Christen, Al Brunswick, Bob Boyle, John O'Connor, Harry Mulligan, John Lane, Cyril Powers, and a number of last year's squad compose the most likely material.

St. Rose schedule for the coming year has not been completed owing to their inability to gain reinstatement into the Ohio High School Athletic Association. It is expected that the school will regain entrance the early part of next week when booking the games with members of the Ohio league will begin.

The naming of St. Rose's new basketball coach has been turned over to the St. Rose Alumni Association. The coach will probably be named next week.

A Record Crowd Saw Big Bout; $2,228 Paid

NEW YORK — The total paid attendance at the Jack Dempsey-Louis Firpo heavyweight championship fight at the Polo grounds Friday night amounted to $2,228, a new high record. It was announced officially today by Promoter Tex Rickard. The total attendance, including complimentary and other admissions, was fixed at $7,000 and the gross receipts at $1,188,822.

The total paid attendance eclipsed by more than 1,000 the best previous mark, approximately 5,000, which was set by the Dempsey-Carpenter fight two years ago at Boyle's Thirty Acres, the total number of spectators at that match was fixed at 92,000. The paid attendance at the Willard-Firpo fight at Boyle's Thirty Acres last July was 18,712.

The federal tax on Dempsey-Firpo receipts amounted to $180,000 and the state tax to $7,107, the deduction of which leaves total net receipts of $951,715.

"Scars of Jealousy" Opens at Sigma Friday

THE sparsely settled South of northern Alabama, one of the most novel ever selected for a screen production, was chosen by Thomas H. Ince as the setting for his latest release, "Scars of Jealousy," which opens a three day run Friday at the Sigma Theatre.

The sturdy mountaineers of the South, a race apart from the rest of the world, made shiftless by their isolation from civilization, are the descendants of French nobles expelled from their country in the Revolutionary days. Reared amid surroundings that offer nothing for self-development the descendants of these pioneers have been and still are for the most part illiterate.

The story revolves around these strange people whose fortunes are intertwined, despite their wishes, with a proud family of the old South. The strangest hate the

"If Winter Comes" Retains Power of Hutchinson's Book

IT IS A RARE exception when a story which has achieved wide popularity is dramatized for the screen and retains in its picturized version the power and vitality that made for its success in book form. When such an event comes to pass, it deserves full measure of praise.

Such an exception is the William Fox screen dramatization of "If Winter Comes," Hutchinson's famous novel which will be shown at the Lyric Theatre again today and Friday.

Readers of the book—and who has not read this great work of fiction, will rejoice that they have the opportunity of seeing the well beloved characters of Hutchinson visualized in a manner that deviates not one whit from their concept of these characters. Motion picture fans who have not read "If Winter Comes," will be delighted with one of the most absorbing film dramas of a decade.

Marz Sabre as Hutchinson, created him, is one of the most lovable characters in all fiction, and as Perry Marmont portrays him on the screen, he retains all the whimsicality, pathos and noble-heartedness of the book. And he looks the part. It tremely suppressed to the violently passionate, and the more fast that Marmont is convincing in the role, ranks his characterization as a notable achievement.

The other characters in the drama are almost equally as well taken care of. That of Mabel, played by Margaret Fielding, is outstanding. The "perfect snob," as the author calls her, is a splendid foil to the broadminded unconventional Sabre, and succeeds admirably in building up that sympathy for poor, abused "Puzzlehead," which Hutchinson intended.

Nona, as portrayed by Ann Forrest, is an appealing bit. Raymond Bloomer in the character of Lord Tybra; Sydney Herbert in the role of Tyrning, and William Riley Hatch as Rev. Sebastian Fortino, make an exceptional cast. Especially to be commended is the work of Dorothy Allen and Eleanor Danbrell, as High and Low Jinks.

"Sally, Irene and Mary" at Faurot

(BY CADNA)

"Sally, Irene and Mary," and the greatest of these is "Mary." Back a few seasons ago, there were three very popular musical comedies. Florio Zeitig produced "Sally," George Cohan, "Mary," and the Vanderbilt Producing company, the most popular, by far of the three "Irene." It is natural to suppose that thru the more or less success and popularity of these successes, that The Shuberts, conceived the idea of combining them into one title, and letting it go at that.

The idea proved successful, not perhaps thru a predominating combination, but thru sheer merit and elegance of the production as a whole, because there is little left of

"Sally," and less of "Irene." So responsibility of placing this combination of music, comedy, considerable pathos, blending scenery and meritorious dancing, must be credited to Messrs Eddie Dowling and Cyrus Wood, for the book; Raymond Klags for the lyrics and Fred Coats for the music, and incidentally to Frank Smithson as the particular individual credited with the staging of the production.

The strong point's bearing towards success of this musical production, lies, perhaps to the sweet story of mother love, that never grows old, which predominates thruout. Josie Chaffin, the Mrs. Dugan leads an air thru her act which takes one back to the days of Harrigan and Hart, and Old Lavender, delightful old comedy is brought to the mind of older play-goers. It is realistic enough to be wondered at, so far as musical comedy goes, overstepping precedent in the most delightful manner. Bits of "East Side" atmosphere lend charm to a combination of blended colors, which are peacefully harmonious.

There is no familiar "back line," to the chorus, which is made up of young faces, who mingle with principles thruout in an abandoned manner, and costumed principally in white silk, and thru the aid of multi-colored lighting effects, adds a finishing touch which is both beautiful and spectacular. But with all this which is beautiful to the eye

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK.—(Associated Press)—Opening prices in today's stock market displayed a strong tone in response to a series of favorable dividend announcements and the increasing prospect of an early reparations settlement. Higher prices for raw and refined sugar led to a good demand for the sugar shares. Baldwin American Can and most of the other pivotal stocks gained large fractions on initial sales. Some of the minor oils were slightly reactionary.

Buying embraced a wide list but was most effective in the rails and sugars, gains of 1 to 2 points being recorded by "Katy" preferred, Delaware and Hudson, Erie second preferred, Cuba Cane Sugar common and preferred. Steels were heavy but a fair inquiry was noted for automotive, rubber, food, equipment, shipping and oil shares, gains of a point or more being recorded by Macmillan preferred, Stewart-Warner mine preferred, Stewart-Warner Speedometer, Willys-Overland preferred and several others. Foreign exchanges opened steady. German marks jumping 25 points to 90 cents a hundred million despite a weekly increase of more than five hundred trillion in note circulation.

MARKET GOSSIP

Thomson & McKinnon Wire.

Grain Car Lots:—Wheat 104; 49; 104; 49. Corn 170-162; 173; 245. Oats 68; 64; 68; 41. Hogs—27,000; 17,000. Left over 20,431. Cattle 12,000; 15,000. Sheep 30,000; 14,300.

Deliveries—Wheat 86; oats 15,000; rye 119,000.

Cash wheat unchanged to 1-4 higher. Corn 1-2 lower; oats unchanged.

Kansas City wheat stocks increased 25,000 bu. so far this week, making total of 10,033,000 bu., a pretty good load considering the light outside interest. The only healthy factor is that mills report a very good flour business. Cash markets about 1 cent up with mills the best buyers.

Liverpool opening—Wheat 1-4 to 3-8 higher. Liverpool wheat close 1-3 to 3-8 lower.

NEW YORK.—(The tone here Tuesday was reactionary following the stiff advance of the day before. More cotton seems to be pointing towards New York as the October premium is getting pretty stiff. Spot cotton south is selling at a figure which will bring mill buying on any break in futures, and while wide fluctuations are likely, May or July bought on recessions seem a reasonable proposition.

Liverpool Cotton—Due 10 1-2 to 14 1-2 points lower. Market opened steady 12 to 13 points decline. At mid-day nine to thirteen points lower.

Private wire from Oklahoma City, Okla., says: Territorial rains throughout state with hail. Heavy winds many sections, damaging to crops.

Germany today proposed thru Belgian ambassador to drop passive resistance in the Ruhr under sole condition that inhabitants of occupied areas who have been expelled shall be returned and those arrested released. She also proposed to consider paying reparations of more than thirty billion gold marks, her previous maximum offer.

Cuban American Sugar declared a dividend of 75 cents a share on common, payable November 15 to stockholders. Directors also declared a second dividend of 75 cents on common payable January 21 to stock record December 8.

U. S. Steel bookings double within the last 30 days. Furnaces operating 80 per cent and ingot productions $7 1-2 per cent.

Shipping board plans suit against Bethlehem Ship Building Corporation for $2,500,000 alleged over payment on war contracts.

Tokio raw silk market re-opens.

United Mine Workers approve coal commission recommendations for bituminous industry.

DETROIT.—Notwithstanding rumors to contrary, The Ford Motor Company is not now considering a reduction in prices of the Lincoln car, says General Salesmanager Hym.

"Our chief interest at moment is trying to find a way to supply cars to our dealers."

SUGAR MARKET

NEW YORK.—The early raw sugar market was unchanged today at five cents for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 6.78 for centrifugal.

The fact that refiners were again covering and offerings were light. There were no changes in refined sugar prices with fine granulated at $2.25 to $2.40. Refined futures were nominal.

EMPLOYEES TO SHARE

NEW YORK.—A plan by which Sinker Sewing Machine Co. employees will share the company's yearly profits, as compensation for their support, was approved today by the stockholders.

Two per cent of $1,000,000 annual profit was to be shared by the employees, the plan provided.

CLOSING MARKET LETTERS

THOMSON & MCKINNON WIRE

STOCK LETTER

The rapid changes in today's stock market were confusing, but because they resulted from professional trading, there was nothing very convincing in its action. A healthy market must have as its basis something substantial, and reports from various industries are not of a character at the present time to increase public confidence. The iron Age today summarized condition in the steel industry in an unfavorable way, we had further cuts in the price of crude oil, the leading brass company announced a cut in its products; copper remains at low level; recently established, at frequent intervals we have some reductions in the price of automobiles; and today weakness developed in the rubber stocks which suggests that possibly some further price-cutting may be expected from that section. Under such circumstances it is not surprising that the public withholds its support from the stock market, which leaves the market susceptible to the in and out operations of the professional element. Just how soon we will have a change for the better is at present uncertain. We have nothing to guide us and therefore must watch developments from day to day. But there is no use of looking for an important advance so long as the investment demand continues as poor as it is.

Wheat growers of the central states who have been grieving over the economic misery of big crops and little prices need only to gaze toward the Pacific northwest to find another class of men mourning over a similar situation.

This year's crop is smaller than that of 1922, but the price is lower. In former seasons prunes brought from 10 to 12 cents a pound to the grower after they had been picked, dried and emerged with the necessary number of wrinkles, without which a prune is a plum. Prices this year are running over seven cents in only a few instances, growers said, which barely pays the cost of picking and preparing them for market.

Growers in recent meetings have started plans for a national advertising campaign to impress upon the reading public the value of the prune as a food.

GRAIN LETTER

WHEAT.—The market again today showed unaccountable resistance to selling pressure, which naturally encouraged more or less covering of short contracts. It was virtually impossible to discover any substantial reason for the firmness except, perhaps, that the export demand was somewhat better. It is extremely doubtful whether this holding attitude on the part of the American producer can bring results when Canadian grain is moving in volume and filling all the current demands of Europe. Judging from the action of the market the past few days it is not improbable that a further rally could occur coincident with continued claims of a bettered export demand. However, support of this sort will have to be given for some time to come to overcome the inevitable pressure of cash grain from both sides of the international line.

COARSE GRAINS.—Sentiment in the corn trade was very much against the market and it was really surprising that prices did not yield more than they did. Those advocating lower prices are taking their cue from a prospective abundance when the new crop begins to move, ignoring actual conditions which include an exceptionally good cash demand.

GAINS SCORED IN WHEAT PRICES

Persistent Buying at Winnipeg Brings About Boost

MARKET IS FIRM AT CLOSE

Corn Slightly on Decline, With Unsettled Finish

CHICAGO.—(Associated Press)—Owing chiefly to weakness of Liverpool quotations, wheat averaged lower in price here today during the early dealings. Pressure of offerings from Canada was the reason given for declines at Liverpool. In Chicago commission house buying increased on the downward swing of values and led to rallies which carried the market to slightly above yesterday's finish. The opening, which varied from unchanged figures to 1-2 lower, December $1.02 to 1.02 1-4, and May $1.07 1-2 to 1.07 3-4, was followed by a moderate general setback and then by a reaction.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. After opening at 1-8 to 1-4 off to 1-5 up, December 67 3-4 to 7-8 to 67 7-8, the corn market receded all around and then scored trifling gains.

Oats started unchanged to a shade higher, December 39 1-2 and later held within narrow limits.

THEATERS

whatever success has been scored in the metropolis, is due to the dramatic sequence, which never lags and goes on to a successful issue at the drop of the final curtain. Jane Taylor made of "Mary," a lovable and sweet character, clever in all the word implies. She possesses a pleasing voice, is a clever dancer, besides possessing an art blended with dramatic and comedy instincts, which delighted an audience that packed the Faurot to standing room. "Sally," played by Buttress Dietch, proved herself a wonderful dancer. The ballet numbers, beautiful in the extreme, shows with what rapidity American women are lending themselves to this particular art; compared to the best schools of Europe. "Irene" had but little to do, but what she did was acceptable.
But it is the bigness of this production, capably cast, that makes for it the success it has attained. The touch of nature, which is perhaps the foundation of half the successful comedies of the day in delightful sequence, that lends an added charm, to an otherwise beautiful production, that would probably score without it; a double motive interwoven giving it a zest far above the usual musical comedy. That's where the success of "Sally, Irene and Mary" lies.

Wants More Circulation So Can Get More Money From Their Advertisers

Republican-Gazette out of town Campaign Managers explain fully to its readers and to Lima Advertisers in its columns WHY The Republican-Gazette is GIVING AWAY seven automobiles, ten percent on all subscriptions, and $100 and $300 bills like they were mere German marks or Russian rubles.

The Lima News wishes to boost the campaign and without charge to the out of town promoters or to our esteemed contemporary, we reprint the following extract from their full page ad of yesterday.

The Republican-Gazette Out of Town Boosters Say: We Quote—

GET MORE THAN MONEY

"There are things more valuable to a newspaper than money. Subscriptions are more valuable. Subscriptions give a newspaper prestige, power and enhance the value of its advertising columns.

"The Republican-Gazette is taking its own medicine. It is advertising. It is spending money to create subscriptions—spending money to add to its advertising patronage, and to create a greater good will. It will not pay the Republican-Gazette in dollars today. But effects of this election, the subscribers who will be gained, the friends who will be made, will be of lasting and inestimable benefit. The Republican-Gazette is simply investing in its own future, in the future of Lima and this territory. Frankly, in the end, it will profit the Republican-Gazette.

CIRCULATION NECESSARY

"Circulation is absolutely necessary to a newspaper. But it is always an expense. No newspaper ever made money on its subscription list. Your Republican-Gazette costs the publisher more each year to produce it and deliver it to you, than you pay. However, if by spending $20,000 now, the Republican-Gazette will increase its subscription list to the point where more advertisers will use its columns, to reach a greater number of people, then, in the years to come this $20,000 will be returned time and again to the Republican-Gazette.

A BUSINESS PROPOSITION

"It is simply a business proposition, and sound from every standpoint. No one loses, not even the Republican-Gazette. This paper, however, will not realize the benefits, and cash in on them as soon as do our readers who carry on with us in this great gift distribution.

"The equipment of the Republican-Gazette is now so complete that it can care for 14,000 readers each day just as easily as it can care for half that number. And that is the goal—14,000 subscribers—that it hopes to reach as a result of this great gift distribution.

The Republican-Gazette frankly acknowledges it has equipment TO CARE FOR 14,000 READERS each day, just as easily as IT CAN CARE FOR HALF THAT NUMBER. And that is the goal, 14,000 subscribers---that it hopes to reach by giving away $22,000.

Thus, the Gazette self-admits it already has HALF of FOURTEEN THOUSAND, or 7,000 in all on its own account. If it can get the 14,000 then it will charge MORE for its advertising, which should be pleasing to Lima merchants.

THE LIMA NEWS NOW PRINTS AND CIRCULATES DAILY SEVERAL THOUSAND MORE COPIES THAN THE REPUBLICAN-GAZETTE HOPES TO GET FOR ITS $22,000.

NEW YORK—(Associated Press)—Opening prices in today's stock market displayed a strong tone in response to a series of favorable dividend announcements and the increasing prospect of an early reparations settlement. Higher prices for raw and refined sugar led to a good demand for the sugar shares. Baldwin, American Can and most of the other pivotal stocks gained large fractions on initial sales. Some of the minor oils were slightly reactionary.

Buying embraced a wide list but was most effective in the rails and sugars, gains of 1 to 2 points being recorded by "Katy" preferred, Delaware and Hudson, Erie second preferred, Cuba Cane Sugar common and preferred. Steels were heavy but a fair inquiry was noted for automotive, rubber, food, equipment, shipping and oil shares, gains of a point or more being recorded by Marine preferred, Stewart-Warner Speedometer, Willys-Overland preferred and several others. Foreign exchanges opened steady, German marks jumping 25 points to 90 cents a hundred million despite a weekly increase of more than five hundred trillion in note circulation.

Trading quieted down after the initial burst of strength, there being a disposition in some quarters to wait the outcome of important dividend meetings today and more definite details concerning the progress being made in reaching a reparations settlement. Free offerings to American Woolen forced that stock down 3 points to 79 1/2, the lowest of the year and caused some realizing in other quarters. Studebaker, Kelly-Springfield and a number of the steel and low-priced oils dropping fractionally below last night's closing figures. Towards midday the market began to creep upward again, Dupont rising 2 1/2 points and Mack Truck two. Call money opened at 4 1/2 per cent.

Confused price movements took place in today's stock market. The pronounced strength of sugar shares, the gains in which ran as high as three points, was counteracted by the extreme weakness of American Woolen based on reports of poor current earnings, and of other individual shares. Sales which were light because of the Jewish holiday, approximately 500,000 shares.

The closing was heavy.

DONAHEY TO TAKE STAND TOMORROW

Accepts Service of Subpoena in Alcohol Trial

CLEVELAND—(Associated Press)—Service of a subpoena as a witness for the defense in the Counts-Sherer-Hoskins conspiracy trial was accepted by Governor Donahey by long distance telephone today. Donahey said he would be in Federal Judge Westenhaver's court at 1 p. m. tomorrow. He will testify as a character witness. Others expected to take the stand tomorrow as character witnesses are United States Senators Simon D. Fess and Frank B. Willis, former Governor James M. Cox, Judges Hugh Mathers and Joseph D. Barnes, both of Sidney, Ohio; Judge Charles F. Galbraith, of Muskegon; James R. Market, former state highway commissioner; Val Lee, former state fire marshal, and Robert M. Schryver and Emil Kiewit, Columbus bank president.

John R. Kramer, former national prohibition commissioner; former Governor James Campbell and Dr. A. E. Smith, president of Ohio Northern University, were to be called to the stand today, Campbell and Dr. Smith merely as character witnesses.

Samuel A. Hoskins, one of the defendants, who was on the stand again in his own defense today, has been chairman of the board of trustees of Ohio Northern for a number of years.

An explanation of the testimony of two government witnesses that they paid more than $20,000 to Hoskins for the release of alcohol to Louis Auerbach of Cleveland was to be demanded by United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein when he took up the cross-examination of Hoskins.

Hoskins was on the witness stand when court adjourned yesterday. Hoskins, in denying charges made on the stand by Louis Auerbach and Samuel Rembrandt, testified that the only money he took from Auerbach was $500, which he declared was a retainer fee. Hoskins testified that he had been employed by Rembrandt as an attorney for Auerbach to act on an alcohol permit matter, and that he did not know Auerbach was engaged in the illicit sale of alcohol.

He further stated that he believed Auerbach was conducting a legitimate business, inasmuch as he had furnished a bond of $102,000 to guarantee that the law would not be violated.

IN LIMA PLAYHOUSES

BY GERTRUDE GILHAM

Sally, Irene and Mary At Faurot

THE Messrs. Shubert will present a new musical comedy, "Sally, Irene and Mary," which took New York by storm last season at the Faurot Wednesday evening.

It comes to Lima on a special train enroute from New York to Chicago, where the show opens at the Great Northern theatre, for a run. Lima and Port Wayne are the only two cities where it will play between the eastern and western metropolises.

A musical comedy with a plot is a rarity in Broadway and because "Sally, Irene and Mary" is a rarity, it was one of the year's outstanding hits and ran for a year at the 44th Street theatre, Casino and Century theatres. There is a definite human interest appeal in this captivating musical comedy which is truly intriguing. The atmosphere and spirit of the East Side is realistically reflected upon the stage. When the scene shifts to that of Broadway, the glamour and sparkle of theatre land is successfully and gracefully caught and retained. Through an excellently executed score and gracefully executed dances lead themselves appropriately to the action of the play.

The ladies of the title are first seen enroute to the times of a hurry-gurdy on the east side. A theatrical manager, in passing is impressed with their ability and decides to give them an opportunity on the stage. That they are possessed of considerable talent is soon manifest and they win their way to the highest pinnacle of fame. "Sally, Irene and Mary" is one of the greatest musical comedy hits that New York ever had, and during the year that it ran in the metropolises it played to capacity houses at every performance. Critics everywhere declared it to be a masterpiece of musical comedy construction, while the music and dancing far exceeded in charm anything else seen in New York last season.

Show Of Wonders Coming To New Orpheum Sunday

THE Blackstone Show of Wonders is scheduled to open a week's engagement at the New Orpheum theatre Sunday matinee. The Great Blackstone himself will lead the organization which is said to be the largest in point of paraphernalia and personnel in the world. Two baggage cars are required to transport the wealth of intricate and delicate equipment necessary to the proper presentation of Blackstone's many mystifying and opulent illusions. There are over a score of handsome young women and assistant conjurers aiding Blackstone in the necromantic endeavors.

For the first time in this city Blackstone will offer his latest creation "The Vanishing Horse." Seized by a band of hooded and robed figures the modern Castlesboro is hanged high in the air only to

New Keith Vaudeville At Faurot

AFTER a somewhat drabgy bill of vaudeville, which was hardly up to standard as presented at Faurot, the first three days of the week, the one which will fill out the remainder of the time until Sunday promises to make amends with considerable to spare. It is not the policy of Manager Clark to present anything but acts that have proven entertaining throughout the Keith circuit, and at times stars, that have graced both the vaudeville and legitimate stage. He announces as headliner beginning Thursday afternoon Frederick Jowers, famous musical comedy star and song writer as the feature. He will be supported by a very capable company, consisting of Walter

Bradbury, Peggy Hart, Ann Meade, Jessica Brown, David Anderson and last but not least, by his famous collie dog "Shep" will establish a precedent for this house, for talent and beauty, not surpassed by any Keith offering that has ever visited this city. Jowers and his company will present a "The Luxe Revue of 1923." This act which has been booked over the Keith circuit for a short time only, will be enlarged and whittled into a regular full length musical comedy, booked to open in Chicago, in a few weeks. To fill out the required limit, aside from this headline act there will be seen Frank and Ethel Carmen, novelty hoop rollers and baton swingers. The young lady is noted for her comeliness and beauty and is a physical marvel. There is also on this bill Armstrong & Gilbert Sisters, another musical comedy trio, who offer a potpourri of songs and talk which has been most popular in many of the principal houses throughout the country.

As a distinct diversity to all the other acts on his bill are the Bowman Brothers — The Bluegrass Boys who are highly entertaining in their delicate negro character. Aside from their comedy they are possessed of rich stirring voices and they are clever enough to blend harmony very delightfully.

A good vaudeville bill is hardly complete without a clever acrobatic act, so to cover this important adjunct "The Flying Hartwells" will be seen on the bill. They do a flying trapeze act, full of hair raising stunts. They were formerly with the Hinchey Brothers circus.

Altogether the bill is one rich in talent and should easily be the most entertaining of the season.

WIRES CRASH IN SNOW STORM

Communication Cut in Sections of Colorado

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.

(Associated Press) — The Cripple Creek gold camp was cut off from the outside world yesterday by a sudden blizzard. Three crews of workmen have been sent into the mountains to repair the lines, but out of commission when 200 poles went down in a heavy snowstorm. Snow already had fallen to a considerable depth in the higher areas and it is proposed to lay temporary lines across the drifts. The town of Victor, across the gulch from Cripple Creek, also was without telephone communication yesterday and last night.

Travel to the summit of Pike's Peak was suspended yesterday because of huge drifts. A rotary snow plow reached the top late in the day over the cog road. Drifts more than four feet deep were encountered.

VESSELS MAY BE WRECKED
NOME, Alaska — (Associated Press) — Rising storms are sweeping the Bering sea coast for a distance of 100 miles to eastward and westward of Nome. Grave fears are felt for the schooner Sea Wolf, Silver Wave, Teddy Bear and Nantah, which are overdue more than a week at Nome from ports to westward.

The schooner Fred J. Wood, owned by M. H. Moore, with a party of paid hunters, went ashore in Port Clarence bay at Teller, 89 miles northwest of Nome. There were no casualties.

BACK WOMAN FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Dr. Josephine Peirce Endorsed by Women's Club

Business and Professional Women's club members at their meeting Tuesday night formally endorsed Dr. Josephine Peirce as a candidate for member of the city board of education at the coming election.

Mrs. Grace Hollister of 112 S. Pierce street and Mrs. Marjorie Day, of the Board of Commerce were named as delegates to represent the Lima club at the state convention at Dayton, October 6 and 7. It was also decided that at the October meeting the club will debate the old age pension question which is proposed for introduction into the next meeting of the state legislature.

Congressman John Cable was the speaker at the meeting Tuesday and by request discussed the immigration question. There was an enthusiastic attendance at the meeting and particular interest is being aroused among the club women on the old age pension question.

SALLY, IRENE AND MARY ARRIVE ON PENNSY SPECIAL

"Sally, Irene and Mary," accompanied by the original producer, Frank Smithson, arrived on a special train of two Pullman sleepers, a diner and two baggage cars, Wednesday. The Schuverts are sending the same cast as opened the show over a year ago at The Century Theatre. Business Manager Louis Lissner stated he had 58 in his party. They open for a six months run in Chicago at the Great Northern, following their appearance here tonight at The Faurot.

WORK IS RESUMED IN MINES

Strike of 155,000 Coal Diggers is Definitely off

SCRANTON, Pa. — (Associated Press) — After an idleness of several weeks due to the suspension order of their union leaders, the 155,000 mine workers in the anthracite region resumed work today. The new wage scale, covering a period of two years from September 1, and embodying the terms of the Harborsburg agreement, based on the settlement submitted by Governor Pinchot, formally was ratified by the tri-district convention of the United Mine Workers on Monday and the suspension order officially lifted. The new scale includes a ten per cent increase in wages, an eight hour day, recognition of the union and the principle of collective bargaining. Union leaders said that a large output this winter was assured, altho it was not expected that normal production would be restored for several days.

Operating officials said that the mines generally were in excellent condition. Tools of the workers and the mine mules were lowered into the underground working yesterday and thousands of men were waiting at the mouths of the mines when the whistles blew this morning for a resumption of operations.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES-- UNDER THE GROUND Chapter 15

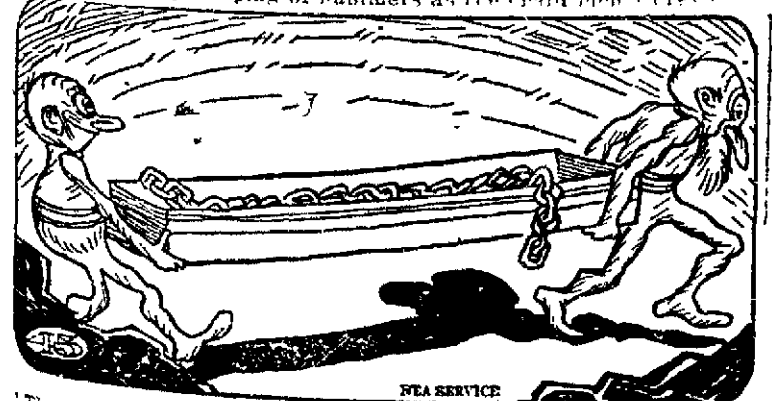

Story by Hal Cochran Drawings by Lee Wright

Where is the land of jewels? asked Jack. 'Well, the best way to find out is to go there,' replied Goldie Locks. 'First of all we will walk in and watch the little band of chain men at work and then we'll go to the land of jewels. And shortly the chain men were ready.'

Jack is surprised at the sight that greeted him. It looked just like a blacksmith shop. Anvils were here and there and hinging from them were long watch chains and necklaces, made out of little links of gold. There was a tap tap tapping of hammers as the chain men worked.

'That's the way the watch chains,' explained Goldie Locks. 'Each little gold link is hammered into place and, after the chain is completed, it's put in a box and sent to the land that you came from. In that land the chain is sold to the women and girls.' (Continued).

SHORT SHAVINGS

A LAND SAILOR

Griggs—What does that lazy Mr. Gink do for a living?
Briggs—He's skipper of a gravy boat at Mrs. Prune's boarding house.

Inspector of Police Strick was a captain overseas during the late war. One night his superior officer was giving a party and asked Strick to attend. At first it was a request but as Strick refused to appear he said, "You be there, That's an order." "All right, sir," said Strick and saluted.

As he had never been on a dance floor in his life he felt it might be best to obtain a little courage in the shape of French vin rouge. At last he arrived at the dance and when the strains of the music started he, accompanied by his partner, started across the floor. After he had reached the center of the room, leaving a string of fellow officers along the route, he felt a tap on the shoulder. It was the Major. "Got the — out of here," he said. Then he added, "That's an order."

How Signs Of Old Age Creep Into Your System When The Iron In Your Blood Runs Low

For Want of Iron, You May Be Old At Thirty—Nervous, Irritable and All Run-Down—While at Fifty or Sixty, With Plenty of Iron in Your Blood, You May Be Young in Feeling and Brimming Over with Vim and Energy.

IRON IS THE RED BLOOD FOOD

That Helps Strengthen the Nerves, Restores Wasted Tissue and Aids in Giving Renewed Force and Power to the Body. Physicians Explain Why Administration of Simple Nuxated Iron Often Increases the Strength and Endurance of Delicate, Run-down People in Two Weeks' Time.

Old age has already sunk its talons into thousands of men and women who ought still to be enjoying the springtime and summer of life simply because they have allowed worry, overwork, nervous strain, dissipation and occupational poisons to sap the iron from their blood and thereby destroy its power to change food into living tissue, muscle and brain. You will find plenty of people at 40 who are broken in health and steadily going downward to physical and mental decay while others at 50 are strong, active, alert and seemingly growing younger every year. One class withers and dies like leaves in autumn while the other by keeping up a strong power of resistance against disease may pass the three score and ten mark with surprising health, strength and vigor. But you cannot expect to look and feel young and vigorous unless you have plenty of iron in your blood, and physicians explain below why they prescribe Nuxated Iron—to supply the iron deficiency in the weak, nervous, and run-down so as to build them up into stronger, healthier men and women.

When, as a result of iron starvation you get up feeling tired in the morning, when you find yourself nervous, irritable and easily upset; when you can no longer do your day's work without being all fagged out at night; when your digestion all goes wrong, or you and endurance in two weeks time by this simple experiment. But in making this test be sure that the iron you take is organic Nuxated Iron and not metallic iron or mineral iron which people usually take. Organic Nuxated Iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron.

YOU ARE AGEING if your skin is shrinking and your face looks wrinkled, careworn and old.

YOU ARE AGEING if you are weary by the activities of your daily life.

Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such a highly concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be approximately equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating half a quart of spinach, or one quart of green vegetables. It is like taking extract of beef instead of eating pounds of meat. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

A LAND SAILOR

Griggs—What does that lazy Mr. Gink do for a living?
Briggs—He's skipper of a gray boat at Mrs. Frunce's boarding house.

Inspector of Police Strick was a captain overseas during the late war. One night his superior officer was giving a party and asked Strick to attend. At first it was a request, but as Strick refused to appear he said, "You be there. That's an order." "All right, sir," said Strick and sat down.

As he had never been on a dance floor in his life he felt it might be best to obtain a little courage in the shape of French vin rouge. At last he arrived at the dance and when the strains of the music started he, accompanied by his partner, started across the floor. After he had reached the center of the room, leaving a string of fellow officers along the route, he felt a tap on the shoulder. It was the Major. "Get the — out of here," he said. Then he added, "That's an order."
